Still More Marines Move Into Dominican Republic

INGO, Dominican Republic AP --American airborne troops landed in the Dominican Republic early today, swelling the number of U. S. forces in the country to 4,200 men as civil war dragged Santo Domingo to the point of anarchy.

The two-day-old military junta appealed for intervention by American troops to help restore order, but U. S. officials said action other than to protect American lives and property would require authorization from the Organization of American States.

However, President Johnson's administration was authoritatively reported in Washington to be on the alert for action to meet any Communist threat to take over the Dominican Republic or plunge it into a Communist "war of liberation."

U. S. officials in Santo Domingo released a list of 52 members of Dominican Communist organizations who they said were believed to have played key roles in the six-day-old rebellion. Beside the name of each man was the Communist country where he was said to have trained--Cuba, China or the Soviet Union.

The rebellion was launched by a group of young army artillery officers seeking to return ousted President Juan Bosch to office. But U. S. officials in Santo Domingo and other observers believe no one now is in control--or could regain control-- of the armed rebel bands, which include many young civilians.

American officials hinted strongly that it would be necessary for American troops to occupy Santo Domingo to end the fighting.

"The rebels are a determined group of people who have gone beyond the point of no return, and they are going to keep going until they bring the country down around their necks." one observer said.

Officials said the situation was rapidly approaching anarchy--a total absence of government, law and order.

Estimates of the dead ranged from 400 to more than 1,000. However, no American casualties were reported.

In Washington, the United States asked the OAS to call on the battling Dominican factions to establish an international neutral zone at Santo Domingo for the safety of refugees.

U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, attending a meeting of the OAS Council which lasted until the early hours today, proposed that the hemispheric organization send a peace committee to Santo Domingo to seek a cease-fire.

The OAS called a meeting in Washington Saturday of American foreign ministers to deal with the "grave situation."

In Santo Domingo, U. S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett said he had conferred repeatedly with leaders of both sides in quest of a cease-fire but had failed in each attempt.

Heavy gunfire raged all through Thursday and into the evening. It died down around midnight.

It was a fluid war, with roving groups on each side, much sniping and sharp clashes when opposing groups encountered each other. Most of the fighting was hit-and-run.

On the rebel side were army troops and civilians armed by the rebel army group over the weekend. Supporting the junta were the air force, the navy and some army troops.

A major battle broke out as a band of rebels armed with automatic rifles, hatchets and knives attacked police headquarters in downtown Santo Domingo. The police retained control of the fortress. Casualties suffered by both sides were not known.

Most of the damage has been concentrated in the downtown area, which except for the fighting forces is virtually deserted. Most stores are closed and shuttered. Travel about the city streets is extremely hazardous.

Large numbers of soldiers and members of the National Police were reported to have taken off their uniforms and gone home.

Thousands were reported injured in the fighting or in strafing and bombing attacks by planes operating from the junta's headquarters at the San Isidro Air Base, 20 miles from the center of Santo Domingo.

Hospitals in the downtown area Thursday night were receiving large numbers of persons, including women and children, with gunshot and shrapnel wounds. A majority of the victims were from the Ciudad Nueva, New City area, a low income housing project which

NEW MADRID -- A man was sentenced, a probation was revoked and two divorces were granted in the final session of the January Term of the New Madrid County Circuit Court here Tuesday, according to Van H. Sharp Jr., clerk of the court.

Sharp said that the new May Term of the court will open on Monday, May 3, when criminal case guilty pleas will probably be heard and the civil and criminal docket for the term set.

Kennett Man Dies From Injuries At Road Junction

In Troop E area, Joseph Hollifield, 65, Kennett, died of injuries at 5:15 p.m. Thursday, when his 1961 pickup was struck by a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by John Kitchen, 82, Bell City.

Kitchens received critical injuries to his chest, head, as well as lacerations, and was taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital for treatment, and later transferred to the John Gaston Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. Hollifield was driving west on Highway 84, five miles from Kennett, when Kitchen was traveling south on Highway A, failed to stop at the junction, and struck the Hollifield car in the side.

In an accident at 4:10 a.m. today on Highway 25 in Delta, two International tractor-trailers met on a curve, causing one of the vehicles to catch fire and be completely destroyed.

Robert Dickey, 42, Texarkana, Tex., was traveling north, with his tractor-trailer loaded with explosives, with his vehicle over the center line as he was rounding the curve. Driving south was Robert Geringer, 55, Cape Girardeau, also with a trailer-tractor and loaded with plywood, which caught fire after it had been struck in the left front.

The accident blocked the roadway for several hours, but fortunately the truck loaded with explosives did not catch fire. Dickey was taken to the Southeast Missouri Hospital with multiple head lacerations, and was also arrested for careless and reckless driving.

Officialal Count Changes One In School Board Race

CHARLESTON -- The absentee votes changed the outcome in the Charleston R-1 school board race on Tuesday, when the three-year term changed one of the two candidates, Mrs. Clifton Banta, as the second victor.

She had trailed Dennis Quertermous and Woodrow Graham, with their vote being 622 and 602 respectively, with 597 for Mrs. Banta. The absentee vote count gave her 40 votes, to 2 for Quertermous and 4 for Graham, with Robert Jackson leading the quartet with 80 absentee votes. The final count was, Jackson 876, Mrs. Banta 637, Quertermous 624, and Graham 606.

The official count for the one-year term gave victors, Fred Moxley 906 and Jim Moreton 712, to 599 for O. T. Dalton and 464 for C. R. Gemeinhardt.

For the two year term, Robert Delaney and Harry Sutherland were unopposed with 1189 and 1083 votes respectively.

Woman Has Same Phone Number As White House

NEW YORK AP -- "Hello, is this the White House?" The called asked.

"No, sir, I'm sorry," the woman replied in a soft, pleasant voice. "You have to dial Area Code 202. You probably didn't dial the correct area code, sir."

Patient, polite Rose Brown, a housewife in Queens, on Long Island, has said the same thing many times since she had her telephone number changed last July. But, she loves having the same number as the White House because, as she puts it: "I'm very much alone. I don't have any relatives other than my husband and a married daughter. When people call me, we get into conversation. It's more or less of a little chatter. It's good therapy for me."

She declined to disclose her age, quipping, "I'm well over 21."

Mrs. Brown's number duplicates the White House number --456-1414 -- except for the area code. It is 212 in New York and 202 in Washington.

Last July when Mrs. Brown returned home from the hospital, she changed the phone number she had for 19 years to avoid calls from friends asking about her illness, which she didn't want to talk about.

One little boy who called told her: "I'm very poor and we would like the President to send $5."

Another boy asked for a picture of the President.

A letter Mrs. Brown got from President Johnson came to light Thursday.

It said in part: "I couldn't be more gratified to know that you are handling these calls with all the diplomacy of an ambassador and the warmth of an understanding woman.

"I suppose as long as our telephone numbers are so similar, if you will do the best that you can in handling White House calls, I assure you we will do the best that we can in handling calls for the Brown family."

G. A. Robinson Declared Winner

On April 20, The Daily Standard ran a picture of flood workers, standing on top of the Wolf Island Loop Emergency Levee, requesting identification of the men, location and date. The picture was taken in 1937 on the Miles T. Lee land on Wolf Island. The identification of the men appears in the cutlines above.

There were many entries but Mr. G. A. Robinson (number 15 in the picture) identified 26 out of a possible 34. A check for $5.00 is in the mail to Mr. Robinson of Memphis, Tennessee. Mrs. Bob Maxwell, Rt. 2 Sikeston, was second, naming 24 persons correctly. Mr. Hunt Willborn, East Prairie, was third, naming 21 correctly.

The emergency levee was started May 3, 1937 and completed May 10, 1937 about midnight. The picture was made the following afternoon just before everyone went aboard the Steamer Chisca to ride around Wolf Island enjoying a steak dinner.

The Standard appreciated all the interest in the picture and we hope to bring you more of this type of feature in the future.

THE PLANNERS' THOUGHTS

It has been said that the liberal segment of American politics may well be responsible some day for the death of the very republic which makes possible the free expression of liberal philosophy. Understandably, the liberals hurl the charge right back. Right or wrong, the thought of the ruination of one's country certainly puts the importance of informed thought and action in proper perspective for all to see.

So, it is incumbent upon all to examine the liberal motivation behind the signing of the test-ban treaty, liberalized trade with Soviet bloc nations, and the goal of an expanded, more powerful United Nations.

That force, or motivation, according to Robert Morris, is found in the title of his new book, Disarmament: Weapon of Conquest. Mr. Morris declares that the aim of the liberal elite, the top level policymakers in the U. S. government, is to form a World Government, backed by an all - powerful peace force. A necessary part of this goal is the destruction of American nationalism -- in fact, of all nationalism in the present era of rising nationalism. Morris thus uncovers an anomaly, and perhaps a self-destroying fault of the disarmament and One World ideas. He points out that the planners realize that these ideas may be anachronistic and have launched on a "Think Factory" public relations program subsidized by the U. S. taxpayer.

Morris, also author of No Wonder We Are Losing, says there is no truth to the charge that the U. S. has no foreign policy. There is one, and it goes by an old familiar title - "The No-Win Policy." This is part and parcel of the step-at-a-time advance toward extinction of nationalism and the establishment of One World Government.

In building his case, Morris says we must remember the "outcroppings" of U. S. policy which Americans have heard about. From time to time, planners have said the United States should not directly oppose the communists. At the time of these outcroppings, the emerging policy was not set forth clearly. Then, Morris says, they dropped two bombs -- the disarmament program and the Rostow Memorandum.

The memorandum was born, nurtured and brought up under the care of Walter Rostow, Chief Policy Planner of the U. S. State Department. The memo embraces the thesis that the Soviet Union is mellowing and that an area of overlapping interests is developing.

Among other things, the memo proposes: expanded contact with Red China, placing it in the same status as Yugoslavia and Poland; that capitalism cannot triumph over communism; gentle treatment of satellite nations, including total abstinence from provocation and criticism; transaction of business with East Germany; and no support for uprisings within satellite nations.

At this point, Morris comments that Americans do not know that this is State Department policy and therefore cannot understand why the U. S. does not help the Cuban exiles, or why tax dollars lavishly bestowed upon dictators such as Tito, Gomulka and Sukarno.

In such a pure air - cleared magically of suspicion and doubt - disarmament is to be more readily accomplished. The U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has already reported out an eight-point program which calls for general and complete disarmament culminating in a U. N. Peace Force. This is what Soviet Premier Khrushchev requested of the United Nations in 1959, and Morris says this is U. S. policy today. In saying that the United States is being put off balance by the Soviets, Morris agrees with Earl Voss, author of the excellent book, NUCLEAR AMBUSH, The Test-Ban Trap. Voss merely put it another way: In the test moratorium of the late 1950's, the Soviet Union tied up the U. S. nuclear testing program with a "clever combination of propaganda. . . and diabolical statesmanship."

Morris underlines what seems to be incredible U. S. "statesmanship" by reminding that while the Soviet Union was moving its expeditionary force across the Atlantic to Cuba, the U. S. was offering the Russians a treaty to implement general and complete disarmament. The word, "incredible," is used in a spirit of charity only: the disarmament proposal assumes that the USSR is a peace-loving nation -- an assumption which the USSR has gone to great lengths and expense to disprove.

As Morris puts it: "The missiles in Cuba, the terror campaigns in Viet Nam and Angola, the shootings at the Berlin Wall, the implacable drive in South America -- all make Walt Rostow sound fantastic."

Disarmament, Morris goes on, is being used as a cover for the creation of an international rule of law, or world goverment, under which all nations would be held in check by an all-powerful international army and an international court of law.

What is wrong with this goal? To Morris, the idea might be a thrilling concept if the United Nations (the framework of the concept) were made up of idealistic men and nations. The fact is, Morris says, the U. S. is not so composed. The idealistic goal of the misty-eyed liberals will be successful only with permanent Soviet good faith. The record "simply does not support the idealistic conclusions of our policy leaders. This, indeed, is a very dangerous game they are playing."

For additional proof, the author cites the U. N. Secretariat, in which hardened Soviet nationals hold highly - important posts. What is "most inconceivable" is that these militant communists could be objective international civil servants. Equally as disturbing is the trend toward unilateral disarmament as seen in the withdrawal and dismantling of important U. S. weapons. Morris offers proof of the trend.

Perhaps the most intriguing section of Morris's book is the revelation about the "Think Factories." He quotes columnist Edith Kermit Roosevelt that these "factories" are financed by the U. S. Government, and that one of them, the Institute for Defense Analysis, has received contracts from the Defense Department and State Department. At times, the IDA has:

Promoted Red China as the "real" threat in order to promote peaceful coexistence with the USSR.

Suggested Quemoy and Matsu be turned over to Red China to enlarge the difference between Red China and the USSR.

Suggested that if the USSR does not disarm, the U. S. should; this with the aim of inducing reciprocation.

Morris is at his most eloquent after quoting Mr. Rostow to the effect that disarmament will make the world safe for ideological differences. Morris' reply: "A rather preposterous notion when dealing with an ideology dedicated to the extinction of diversity."

Morris builds a nostalgic longing for a realistic and American foreign policy. He offers an intimate glimpse at how U. S. planners think, and such a book would be a valuable asset to any bookshelf.

Doc. Duncan Says

A guy's mother-in-law took down with an ailment while visiting him. Doctor came each day for weeks. Son-in-law was picking up the tab. She was giving him a hard way to go about the way he was treating her daughter. One morning he confronted the Doc and said, "Doc you are not doing her any good. Recommend something else." Doc said, "I recommend a hot climate." Son-in-law went out the back door and returned with a pole ax, handed it to the Doc and said, "Here Doc, you hit her, I sorter hate to."

H. L. Hunt Says

BACK TO BUFFALO BILL

Having worked when young as a cowhand, in 1945 I purchased ranches in the Powder River Basin near Miles City, Montana. After hearing fantastic stories of grasshopper plagues, I wanted a grasshopper-proof ranch and bought the Hoodoo ranches near Cody, Wyoming in 1948.

The several ranches, including some once owned by William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), were thrown together by wealthy Englishman W. R. Coe. They lie along the Shoshone and Greybull Rivers and Sage and Pine Creeks.

Hoodoo consisted of deeded land, Taylor grazing-tracts and forest permits totalling over 250,000 acres, with 5,000 acres irrigated land growing alfalfa.

Livestock consisted of 100 horses, 5,000 cows, 900 heifers and 10,000 sheep. The mother-cow herd was the finest Herefords in the country. All were pure bred although registration papers had not been kept.

My representative bought the outfit complete from U. S. Senator E. V. Robertson, including the furniture in the newly constructed headquarters house. Dale Petit, a noted forester, cattleman, ranch manager and once dude wrangler at the Valley Ranch Resort on the Lower Fork of the Shoshone was installed as manager.

Preferring to run a steer herd, we auctioned the famous cow-herd and reduced the investment from $1,900,000 to $1,200,000.

Hoodoo has never been operated as a hobby. Grazing operations netted $396,000 in one year running steers which were always cornfed in commercial feed lots near Omaha. I have had as many as 16,000 head on feed at one time fattening to grade choice.

The Frost Ranch House built of great logs, near what became Hoodoo headquarters, was traditional as a stagecoach inn where western notables lodged, including Owen Wister while finishing his book, The Virginian.

The ranch was not bought for oil production, but now embraces 2 oil fields which expedited the payout. HLH

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — You know how to say "Slide, Kelly, slide" in Spanish?

"Slide, Pedro, slide."

That's how.

It may be stretching the point to use this old baseball phrase as a sample, but the truth is that from Tijuana to Tierre del Fuego the natives are putting lots of English to their Spanish.

The result is a jivey "Spanglish" that has saddened purists. They blame it all on what they call "el snobismo."

The creature of lightning-swift communication of new cultures, ideas and expressions, English-accented Spanish may be more than just a passing fad. It seems to be giving the mother tongue a flexibility to meet the communication needs of Latin America's younger generations.

One day in 1960, while haranguing against American influences in Cuban life, Fidel Castro suddenly — and uncharacteristically — seemed at a loss for the right word to describe the extent of counterrevolutionary activity in the country. He finally blurted out it had become a "hobby."

Because of their proximity to the United States, Cuba and Mexico are believed to have pioneered the injection of simple English expressions into the language.

Television and movies have been major vehicles in recent times.

Today there's hardly an English word that doesn't fit or gets thrown in somewhere in everday Spanish.

Some examples:

Housing — the important question to ask is how big is the "living" room is deleted and does the apartment come with kitchenette spelled "quichenet" in some countries. You may be told it has an ample "hall" and that the rent can be discussed in another "interview."

Clothing — The young girl looking for a shorty negligee needs only ask for "un baby doll." Bikini is common, as are "shorts" for bathing trunks and "sweater."

Travel — The only way to go is "pro jet," making certain to take "muchos travelers checkes." The resort is certain to have quite a few "whiskerias" and "bar grills."

Why is this happening to Spanish?

In Argentina, at least, says a university professor, French influence is on the decline and English has become the second language. This could be true of the rest of the Americas, he added.

WASHINGTON — There's been a bitter backstage battle in the House Agricultural Committee over the question of putting Negroes on local agricultural stabilization and conservation committees.

The battle affects several hundred thousand Negro sharecroppers in the deep South and could jeopardize subsidy payments to tobacco and cotton farmers. Northern Democrats have been willing to go along with these rich subsidy payments for the sake of party harmony. But the civil rights issue has become so important in the north that this support could easily be withdrawn and if so the farm bill would be defeated.

This is one reason the arguments over Negro participation in the Southern farm program have been held with no northern Congressman present.

To avoid leaks, southern Congressmen met privately with Horace Godfrey, head of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Godfrey is from North Carolina. So is Chairman Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee. Present were representatives L. H. Fountain and Ross Taylor, also of North Carolina, together with such pillars of Southern agriculture as Thomas G. Abernethy, Miss., "Took" Gathings, Ark., John McMillan, S.C., Paul Jones, Mo.

The debate was hot and heavy.

"Horace, you're turning your back on your own people," complained Cooley to Godfrey, his fellow North Carolinian, "You're going too far. You set quotas for Negroes' jobs, and there's not supposed to be any quotas in filling jobs. It's unconstitutional."

Cooley referred to the fact that Godfrey had sent a directive to all local Agricultural Stabilization Committees directing that the first vacancy on local committees be filled with Negroes until the percentage of Negroes employed was equal to the percentage of Negro farmers, in each Southern state.

His directive followed a tough report by the Civil Rights Commission pointing out that no Negro served on a state agricultural committee in the South; and that only 75 Negroes served among 37,000 members of community committees.

There was immediate revolt in the deep South against Godfrey's directive.

"If you think you're going to get a farm bill if you stick to that program," Chairman Cooley told his fellow North Carolinian, "you're just crazy."

Most of those present at the inside meeting were old friends of Horace Godfrey. They had known him a long time. But they found him adamant on the point that Negroes must be given a voice on the local committes which regulate Southern agriculture.

—FRIENDSHIP HOUSE—

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson hasn't made headlines riding Arab stallions or yachting in the Mediterranean, but in her own way has made a lot of private headlines in people's hearts.

This week she is giving a lift to an institution which Jane Addams first made famous with her Hull House in Chicago. These "settlement houses," started to help immigrants get adjusted in big American cities, are now usually called "friendship houses."

The friendship house which Mrs. Johnson is visiting in Washington aims at solving the problems of the underprivileged, all the way from finding jobs to getting surplus food to securing legal services. All sorts of people volunteer, from clerks, to housewives, to a truck driver who recently helped a family of five find a bed.

Meeting this truck driver, Rep. Hugh Carey, D-N.Y., commented, "If we had 50,000 like you we'd be all set."

Mrs. Johnson is giving a lift to this particular friendship house as symbolic of what is being done and can be done all over the USA.

The severe - local - storm forecast center in Kansas City, Mo., did a remarkable job of forecasting the tornados that struck the Mid-West recently. Labor leaders are grumbling over the way House Labor Chairman Adam Clayton Powell put the bite on them to help pay off his $267,000 libel judgment. He personally invited them to a $50-a-plate dinner to raise the money. Since they must go before Powell's committee for labor legislation, few turned down the invitation. . . Only half the planes that take off for raids on North Viet Nam ever hit the target. The rest are fighter planes, which protect the bombers, and photo-reconnaissance planes, which scout the targets in advance; also photograph the damage afterward. . . Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., has resisted pressure to reopen the investigation into President Kennedy's assassination. Right - wing groups have been clamoring for a probe by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to expose the assassination as a "Communist plot." Before the assassination, the same right-wing groups portrayed President Kennedy not as a victim but a conspirator of the Communists. . . Dodd may turn the tables on the right-wing fanatics and investigate them instead. He is interested in outlawing para-military organizations, which arm their members and train them for possible insurrection. Such militant outfits as the Minutemen, Ku Klux Klan, Black Muslims, National States Rights Party, and American Nazi Party would be affected.

By Victor Riesel

Millionaires' New Social Set--The Labor Leaders.

Washington, D. C.:--It's becoming easier for labor leaders to fight the class war. They're being lionized by millionaire political leaders.

For some union chiefs these days, it's breakfast at the Kennedys' and lunch at the Rockefellers'. Nor do only a privileged few speak for the proletariat. They go en masse to the well-laden tables in lovely homes.

Actually it was Gov. Nelson Rockefeller who first opened his home to the labor men--from masons to musicians, from clothing to construction unions. And now New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is determined not to lag behind this open door policy.

Mr. Kennedy, who genially has hosted a terrace party or two for some national labor leaders in the past, now is inviting the lower echelons--en masse.

On the morning of May 5, it will be breakfast for a score or more of New York's construction local union officials on the patio of his McLean, Va., home. The men are in town for the unprecendentedly huge building and construction legislative labor conference and lobbying meeting.

Bob Kennedy wants the home state contingent in for many reasons--not the least is his eagerness to establish a mass labor base in his newly adopted state.

Relationships are not too warm on the labor front. Sen. Kennedy knows he can use some new friends in the union ranks. For some weeks now he has been seeking a full-time labor contact man to bring the fraternity closer.

Some of the labor leaders are intimates of Vice President Hubert Humphrey. They see the new senator as a possible future rival of the effervescent man from Minnesota, who knows virtually all of them by their first names.

And some of the union officials, especially in the building and construction trades, are fond of "Rocky," as they call the energetic governor.

Mr. Rockefeller is an old hand at this socializing. He rarely makes a policy move vital to the labor chiefs without having them into one or another of his homes here or in New York.

As recently as Mar. 25, Mr. Rockefeller invited some 20 nationally prominent New York labor leaders to lunch at his Fifth Ave. apartment in New York. It was an off-the-record gathering and has remained unreported until this moment.

Among the guests were men from such disparate unions as the Teamsters, spoken for by international vice president Johnny O' Rourke; the carpenters, in the person of Charles Johnson; the white collar employes, represented by one of the upcoming new breed of young labor men, Howard Coughlin; and the one-man labor army, Harry Van Arsdale, who plans to add one million new members to union ranks shortly. Mr. Van Arsdale's goal is the four-hour day.

They gathered at noon time in a vast dining room which had been newly furnished--new table, new chairs, new decor. One union chief looked uneasily at the abstract paintings favored by the governor and whispered to the painters' union leader, "Bet you your men could spray canvas that way." And someone whispered, "Hush up, they're Picassos."

The issues between the governor and the labor leaders were sharp--as was the humor. Some of the new chairs, which had not been used until that moment, cracked under the carpenters' Charles Johnson and a clothing union chief, Louis Hollander. The governor grinned at Johnson and observed the carpenters were losing their skill.

But the labor leaders had not lost their touch with the political needle. The governor outlined his sales tax proposal, pointing out that the state would need over $700 million more.

They were not happy with the sales tax and even more grumpy over the governor's statement that, to keep the state competitive, he would veto a bill calling for a $1.50-an-hour statewide minimum wage.

But he made the point during the four-hour give-and-take that his plans for school, mental hospital and road construction would create 120,000 new jobs during the coming five years.

That warmed them over. Furthermore, they had Bob Kennedy's promise to fight for the $1.50-an-hour minimum wage law on the state and national front. And now some of them have the senator's invitation to breakfast on the lawn.

What a way to win a war.

The Modern Christian

Do You Believe That Christians Are Justified By God Alone?

Yes. It is primary that only God can give God. God alone justifies, and this is being saved. We share in His divine life because of his gift.

There is a paradox here, for man must consent and cooperate freely with the gift of the Spirit. It is God who works in us and makes us holy. Only God saves, and at the same time, God does not save without our free consent. God does not force our free will.

When we become holy, it is not our personal efforts at work, but the real action of the Spirit within us.

In the biblical sense, it is not one who has done great things for God, but for whom God has done great things, whereby one is holy or justified.

It is paramount to stress that the God of Christians is God the Father to whom Jesus Christ leads us in the Spirit. In this way Christians are justified by God alone.

Sikeston Blasts Notre Dame 7 to 2 For 8th Win

Sikeston's Baseball Bulldogs won their seventh game of the year yesterday against one defeat. Sikeston jumped on the Notre Dame Bulldogs and handed them a 7 to 2 defeat at Cape Girardeau.

Stallings went all the way on the hill for the Bulldogs. He pitched seven innings, allowing two runs while walking one and striking out six. The Notre Dame team managed seven hits for the game.

Capshaw, Notre Dame third baseman and lead off hitter, tagged Stallings for a home run in the sixth inning. Wulfers, the shortstop, pounded out two singles for the losers.

Terry James was the big man in the Sikeston lineup again today. The blonde centerfielder, hit a pitch to right-center field in the third inning for a home run. Couch had double scored ahead of James.

Chuck Heath, Jim Gooch, and Terry James all had two hits for the winners. Wayne Limbaugh and Jim Gooch also hit doubles for Sikeston.

Sikeston is slated to meet Jackson Wednesday at V. F. W. Park.

Palmer Takes Lead In Tournament Of Champions, Nicklaus 8 Strokes Back

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer led the way into the second round of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions today, and to the dismay of his admirers, two-time winner Jack Nicklaus was eight long strokes back.

But as a well-known sage from West Virginia — golfer name of Sam Snead — predicted:

"When the curtain comes down, Nicklaus will be there—with his hand out."

The 52-year-old Snead, sitting in the press tent, reflected a moment, looked out at what he calls "those flippity-wristed kids" on the practice tee, and continued:

"Maybe Nicklaus had a bad night the night before, maybe the colic. He putts too good and hits too good. He'll be around at the finish."

Colic or whatever, Nicklaus had a first-round 74 and got only one birdie, and that belatedly at the 15th hole.

And Palmer, meanwhile, escaped the putting miseries that have baffled him for a year and shot a six-under-par 66.

Sunny weather — it was a high 90 Thursday — was promised as the field of 26 resumed play over the 7,029-yard, par 36-36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course.

Two strokes back of Palmer were Snead, who had only one disastrous hole; Bill Casper Jr., and young Dick Sikes.

Bruce Crampton, Chuck Courtney, George Knudson, Rod Funseth and Doug Sanders were tied at 69, and Bob Charles, Paul Harney and Chi Chi Rodriguez were deadlocked at 70.

Nicklaus, the 5-2 betting favorite to win the event for the third straight time, beat only one golfer in the initial round. Pete Brown of Los Angeles had a 78, along with a muscle spasm in the back that might put him out of action.

Mizzou Shot Putter Leads Big Eight

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Midwest relay circuit is finished and the 37th Big Eight outdoor meet is two weeks away, but the league's gifted track athletes already have put 10 of the 17 meet records in jeopardy.

Individual times and marks are certain to be bettered even more down the stretch as the league coaches hone their squads and take aim at the Kansas, defending outdoor champion.

Of the 10 league meet marks already in jeopardy, seven have been equalled or surpassed this season, three others were surpassed last year by a trio of seniors.

Take it from Nebraska coach Frank Sevigne, the track for the Big Eight meet May 14-15 at Lincoln, Neb., should be "fast as the dickens." A new top of volcanic rock from New Mexico and clay from Lincoln was put down over a network of subsurface drainage.

The job cost $10,500 and restored the track to its ranking among the nation's best.

Six new season bests were established by Big Eight athletes at the Drake Relays last weekend. Two were the best in league history—the 16:40.6 by Kansas in the four-mile relay and Oklahoma's 3:17.8 sprint medley. Several marks could be lowered Saturday, with all eight teams involved in dual meets. Southern Illinois is at Kansas, Nebraska at Colorado, Kansas State at Missouri, Oklahoma State at Oklahoma and Iowa State at Air Force.

Other season bests by the league at Drake were 9.4 in the 100 by Charlie Greene, Nebraska; 13.9 high hurdles by Darryl Green, Iowa State; 57-6½ shot put by Missouri's Gene Crews; and 48-7¼ triple jump by Glenn Martin, Kansas.

The meet mark of 9.4 might go on the fast Husker track. Greene and OSU's Mickey Miller both have run 9.4 with slight tailwinds, but Greene did it on a wet track. Iowa State's Green will battle the meet record holder. Jim Miller of Colorado, and the record of 14 flat might go.

Martin's triple jump is a foot beyond the league record. Bill Floerke of K-State, with the league's season best of 266-5½, is almost 10 feet beyond the meet mark. Nebraska, OSU and K-State all have run under the mile relay mark of 3:10.5, led by Nebraska's 3:09.3. The Huskers twice have equalled the meet 440 relay mark of 40.5.

Russ Laverty of OSU is co-holder of the meet high jump mark of 6-8½ but the favorite will be Missouri sophomore Steve Herndon, who has gone 6-9¼ outdoors and 6-10¼ indoors.

Miller is the American record holder in the 330 hurdles at 36.2 and could beat his own meet mark of 36.4. Missouri's Robin Lingle several times has run under the meet mile mark of 4:04.9. Herald Hadley of Kansas, NCAA indoor two-mile champ, has a career best in the three-mile well under the meet record.

Junior High Track Meet Saturday

On Saturday, May 1, the Middle School is holding the first Sikeston Junior High Invitational Track meet. Nine schools will participate in this meet including Sikeston, Malden, Charleston, Perryville, Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff, Jackson, and Kennett. Each school will enter a ninth grade team and a seventh and eighth grade team. Trophies and ribbons will be given to the winning teams and individuals. This is the first home meet the Middle School has had, and we encourage the attendance of all Sikeston and surrounding area residents who are interested. The field events and morning preliminaries will begin at 9:00 a.m.; the finals will begin at 1:15 p.m.

Cards Lose Game and Money In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE AP--It probably cost the St. Louis Cardinals a pretty good chunk of money to visit Milwaukee for their three-game baseball series with the Braves.

Despite 67-degree weather at game time, only 2,182 fans turned out at County Stadium for the series finale Thursday night. That brought the three-game attendance to 5,183.

The Cardinals received the regular visiting-club share of 27 1/2 cents on each dollar. On that basis, the club pocketed less than $2,000. Hotel, meals and travel expenses far exceeded that.

A—The Thoroughgood House, probably built in 1636, located in the Norfolk, Va., area. It is now owned by the Norfolk Museum of Arts and Sciences and is open to the public.

Hornets Edge Scott Central In Dual Track Meet

Advance traveled to Scott Central to take a dual track meet from the Braves 72 2-3 to 63 1-3. It was a close meet and Scott Central was hampered by the loss of their star sprinter Richard Taylor. Advance had 9 first place finishes, to 7 for the Braves.

Braves Down Cards

Cards-A's

The St. Louis Cardinals, last year's world champions, marked time in last place as the Milwaukee Braves beat them Thursday night, 4-1, at Milwaukee.

St. Louis, with a 4-8 record, has now been in the cellar 10 straight days.

Dick Groat got three of the Cardinals' four hits as Braves pitchers Bob Sadowski and reliever Billy O'Dell took complete charge.

St. Louis' only run came in the fourth inning when Curt Flood led off with a triple and scored on a ground-out by Ed Spiezio.

The Cardinals return to what they hope will be friendlier ground tonight at St. Louis. Ray Sadecki (0-2) will start for St. Louis against Pittsburgh. The Pirates will pitch Vernon Law (0-2) against the Redbirds.

Kansas City didn't play Thursday and takes on the Los Angeles Angels in a night game at Kansas City. John O'Donoghue (1-1) will pitch for the Athletics against the Angels' Marcelino Lopez (1-2).

DUDLEY, Mass. (AP) -- Freshman Bob Ritchie was what they call a good hitting pitcher with a .536 average. So Nichols College tried him in right field.

He liked it so well he drove in 13 runs with three grand slams and a solo homer in Thursday's 26-1 baseball victory over Bryant College of Providence, R. I. Ritchie went 4-for-5 at the plate and scored five times.

After about four years of silence, the clock at the People's Bank building is chiming again. On Saturday, a representative of the O. B. McClintock Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., installed a new electric operating unit which runs directly from city current.

Although about five of the club's best players did not participate, Sikeston golfers Sunday won 39 to 5 when they entertained Charleston on the course here.

We're having our greatest sales year—thanks, in part, to a lot of former Ford and Chevy owners. Here's one reason they bought: nearly half our '65 models are actually priced just a few dollars a month more than the most popular smaller cars, comparably equipped. And that small difference includes power steering, power brakes, automatic transmission, radio, heater and V-8 engine. Say you're driving a Ford now? How'd you like to drive a Chrysler tomorrow? See us today and make the move up. It's never been easier.

Present Conditions Along Banks Of Mississippi

THIS IS THE PRESENT SCENE at Commerce where the Mississippi River is bulging at the seams, trying hard to enter the residential area. Back in 1937, it did make its' entry into the town.

The swollen Mississippi River hamered at western Illinois, eastern Iowa and northeastern Missouri today as reinforced dikes held back the surging waters.

The river held at 24 feet in Quincy in west-central Illinois.

At Fulton, Ill., Gov. Otto Kerner called out 30 more National Guardsmen to help the 3,400 residents in the town surrounded by water.

The Red Cross reported that a dike patrolman fell through a three-foot breach in a levee along flooding Eliza Creek near Aledo, northeast of Keithsburg, but was quickly rescued. His identity was unavailable.

Workers quickly clogged the crack with 1,500 sandbags. Some 25,000 acres of farmland and 100 homes would have been flooded if the dike broke, the Red Cross said.

The Red Cross estimates that the Mississippi flooding has made more than 38,000 persons homeless. Red Cross workers are feeding 11,650 flood volunteers and housing 1,375 evacuees in 19 shelters along the Mississippi.

Most of Quincy's 45,000 residents live on a high bluff overlooking the river. But the dike protecting an industrial complex along the roaring Mississippi burst Wednesday night.

Later, three secondary levees also gave way, one developing a 300-foot gash. But most of the 5,500-acre area remained undamaged behind sandbags.

Quincy has become a railroad center because of the floods. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad; the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, and other carriers rerouted their main lines through the city because Quincy is one of the few points where they can cross the river.

The river hit a 24.81-foot crest at Muscatine, Iowa, and immediately began to drop.

THIS IS THE PRESENT SCENE on Rt. 102, east of East Prairie where the Mississippi River is slamming hard at the levee. Notice how the highway markers drop out of view into the water.

It Could Happen Again, Below Is Brief Resume Of 1937

Four Thousand Men Try To Hold Levees

A total of 4,300 men were engaged in an attempt to hold the set-back levee from New Madrid north and on the Drinkwater levee near Birds Point, which protects Charleston and the territory back of the floodway.

Charles L. Blanton Jr., WPA District Director, in charge of the men engaged in levee work, expressed the opinion that the levee would hold. Of the 4,300 men, 1,500 were on the north part and 1,300 on the Drinkwater or river levee.

At this point, the floodway was about 80 percent filled. However, all of the floodway had water in it, but it was deepest in the lower end.

As this spillway filled, it became an inland sea, with its surface dotted with trees, ice floes, buildings all dumped into one scene of gloom. The current was violent, sweeping everything in its path.

They didn't know at this time if the newly formed floodway would hold or not. If it didn't, they knew that a catastrophe of unprecedented horror would occur, with New Madrid and Mississippi Counties sure to be covered with rampaging water. And too, great concern was given to Dunklin and Pemiscot counties, both of which were already flooded by the St. Francis River.

The previous Monday Morning, the old Mississippi River levee on the Missouri side and south of Birds Point, had two places dynamited to relieve the pressuring current and crest that was coming relentlessly.

Business Men Prepare At New Madrid

At New Madrid, the business firms in the City started preparing for the high waters. The New Madrid weekly paper, "New Madrid Weekly Record," owned at that time by Albert O. Allen, was published on the January 25, Monday, because high water was expected to hit the area before Friday, the regular publishing date for the paper.

As soon as the four-page publication was printed, workmen began scaffolding what machinery could be raised.

It was planned that if the water was too high in New Madrid, the paper would be printed in Sikeston the following week.

All of the stores began to assemble their stock, placing all except the bare necessities eight feet above the floor. Some of the firms hired trucks and shipped much of their merchandise to higher ground.

Red Cross Aid Great Help

The Red Cross aided 748,229 persons of the total 1,205,256. The persons were either in refugee camps, their homes, or in neighbors' homes while being given assistance by the Red Cross.

The Red Cross operated 838 camps and 270 field hospitals. Persons sick in the hospitals numbered 4,288 and the nurses on duty numbered 1,506.

The high water affected families in 177 counties in 11 states. The Red Cross moved refugees into 114 additional counties which were not flooded by the rising rivers, and housed them there temporarily, until their own homes could be made habitable again.

A total of $22,000 was spent on refugee care by the Red Cross here in Sikeston.

Rescue Operations Divided Into Two General Phases

Rescue work in Mississippi County and New Madrid County was generally divided into two phases as follows:

FIRST PHASE: the warning evacuation of the Floodway Area and the backwater area east of the Set-back Levee when a break in the front line levee was predicted and the high state of the river would increase the backwater south of, and west of East Prairie.

SECOND PHASE: During the time water was running through the Floodway and an unprecedented rise in the backwater area. During the first phase the roads and highways were covered with snow and ice, and it was necessary to break the ice of the waters surface of the backwater area.

The first phase began on Friday January 22nd, when Division No. 10 of the Missouri State Highway Department went into action under the direction of E. J. Noonan, Division Engineer, with Headquarters at Sikeston. Snow plows, trucks, rigging of all kinds, and every man were made available, and moved into the critical area including executive, administrative heads, who transferred their efforts to the floodway.

The early participation of the Highway Department was based on a comprehensive plan of action set forth by Mr. L. T. Berthe, sector Commander, Highwater Maintenance, with General Hadquarters at Charleston. The plan was a co-operative program with the State Highway Commission, and was made as early as April, 1936. On January 21, 1937 Mr. Berthe, in a letter to the Area Engineer at Cairo, reviewed the plan. While the plan was entended to fit into a situation which might develop in levee District No. 2 (Scott County). The office of the Division Highway Engineer at Sikeston alerted its' force and began preparation to function under the plan where a critical situation might develop.

Working under the most difficult conditions of weather and with limited means, 2300 persons were taken out of the backwater area during the first and second phase of the evacuation.

When the water entered the floodway the U. S. Engineers sent in boats and rescue parties thus relieving the Highway forces who then moved into the backwater area.

The chronological development of the rescue program resulted in a combination of effort and unity or purpose in the common cause to prevent suffering and death, which in order to do justice to all, would require research and investigation, with facilities not immediately available.

There were many agencies and individuals who volunteered and individuals who voluntered and joined the organized forces and there was a corresponding amount of personal sacrifice and heroic service to the marooned and distressed. The men and women in the communities adjoining the Floodway and Backwater rendered untiring and unselfish service throughout.

Of the 110th Observation Squadron, Missouri National Guard, and the Advance Command Post of Brigadier General Lewis M. Means, Adjutant General of the State: official and volunteer boat stations; State Highway Patrol Stations; State Highway Engineer Rescue facilities; the State Game Warden; the Red Cross; CCC Company 3729; and CCC Company 3741. Headquarters Missouri Flood District was located in the State Highway building at Sikeston adjoining the Advance Command Post of the Adjutant General and in close contact with the situation.

In addition to the activities of the planes as indicated in the notes approximately 250 warning messages were dropped in the standard Army dropping tube with a yellow streamer and another 200 warnings were dropped by a improvised method; using a 5-pound paper bag with a rock in it and a streamer attached. These were dropped on isolated homes.

Medicine And Clothing Sent In For Refugees

Medical aid, food and clothing for flood refugees were sent to this section from St. Louis Medical Director, Avery P. Rowlett, four internes and five nurses were in Charleston, where many refugees were suffering from exposure. Typhoid fever was also a threatening menace.

Women workers, employed day and night, were working in shifts, making blankets. Thousands of blankets and over 60,000 articles of wearing apparel and bedding was already in use.

Senath and Cardwell areas had been completely evacuated at this time.

Fair weather had prevailed since the first of the week, giving people some assurance of recovering from the devastating damage they and their property had suffered.

Soldiers, from the regular Army, had been sent to Sikeston from Des Moines, Iowa. They were sent to aid the Red Cross workers in operating flood relief kitchens.

Sikeston was promised regulation army housing units, but because of a shortage of tents, only the kitchen units could be sent. The crisis that had developed in the St. Francis river valley and the need for tenting there depleted the supply that was on hand.

The Red Cross officially located its base here, with headquarters being located in the Rural Resettlement office on East Malone Ave.

Three Thousand Housed In Sikeston

Sikeston began to "dig in" with 3,000 people living in refugee camps set up at 12 different locations. They expected hundreds of more people to come if the levees protecting Mississippi and New Madrid counties gave in to the raging, slamming Mississippi River.

The temporary camps were located at: South Grade school building, (858 refugees), Baptist Church, (164 refugees), Nazarene Church, (169 refugees), Christian Church, (112 refugees), Odd Fellows building, (188 refugees), and the Methodist Church, which was a hospital set up to care for the retreating fear-struck refugees, had 52 people in it.

At this point, the Sikeston high school was pressed into service, when additional people, for whom there was no room in any of the other camps, came in to town for shelter and food.

An attempt was being made in the various camps to provide each family with as much privacy as possible. In the churches, Sunday school classrooms provided partitions that were convenient in that respect.

Straw was used for bedding, with blankets, quilts and clothing being donated by residents of Sikeston for the warmth of the refugees.

Missouri Gov. Stark arrived in Sikeston by plane on the morning of Jan. 28 at 10:30 a.m. After inspecting the flood emergency relief headquarters here he began a tour of the south[illegible]ct in Southeast Missouri by plane and automobile. He returned to Jefferson City that [illegible]

The families were all kept together as much as was possible. Records were kept, giving their names, ages, address, present location, flood losses and what was saved, and other information helpful in cataloguing the refugees.

The schools had been closed since Tuesday, January 26, 1937. At this point, they gave up having classes indefinitely, not knowing what to expect from the flooding conditions in the area.

Airplanes To Aid Hay Fever Victims

NEW YORK AP -- With the aid of an airplane, a physician says he's found clues to help victims of hay fever and asthma.

The clues involve the way warm air currents and cool air carry around the pollen grains and mold spores triggering these ailments.

Atomic fallout is apparently moved about in much the same way, so "we are not helpless in our control of fallout" or of pollen, Dr. Herman A. Heise of Milwaukee, Wis., said today.

"We can avoid much of it by staying in the warmer city rather than in the cooler country. Smoke screens and the resulting clouds prevent radiation of heat, thus minimizing fallout," he told the Aerospace Medical Association.

"Our findings indicate we can prophesy pollen counts as accurately as we can prophesy the weather," he said. "Yesterday's pollen counts may be interesting, but tomorrow's estimate has practical value" for victims of hay fever.

Heise and associates, in a private plane, trapped and counted pollen grains and mold spores at heights up to 20,000 feet.

A simple mechanism seems chiefly responsible for the rising and falling of these solid particles, he said.

"When the earth is heated by the sun, the lighter warmer air at the surface balloons upward through the cooler air, causing instability, and the upward currents carry the tiny solid particles into the clouds and haze layer," Heise said.

"At night with clear skies, conditions are reversed. The earth cools by radiation, so that the air above now is warmer than the air near the ground. Upward currents cease, and the now-stable air allows the particles to settle. The haze layer actually drifts earthward, carrying the particles with it."

Rundown On State Employment, 1964

CENSUS BUREAU REPORTS ON STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT IN MISSOURI.

In the latest count of the Census Bureau in October 1964, Missouri had 161,700 State and local government employees, reports A. L. Rascher, Jr., director of the St. Louis field office of the U. S. Department of Commerce. Local governments accounted for 120,900 while the State employed 40,800.

The State of Missouri employed 76 persons per 10,000 population. This compares with national average of 860 for state governments. Local governments in Missouri employed 235 persons per 10,000 population compared with the national average of 258 for all local governments.

Payrolls for State and local government employees in Missouri amounted to $56,199,000 in October 1964. Local government employees were paid $42,496,000 and State employees received $13,704,000. The average earnings of these employees was $412.

On a full-time equivalent basis, Missouri had 137,400 State and local government workers. Education accounted for 67,500 of these employees, and other functions required 69,900 employees. These other functions included highways with 10,600 employees; hospitals and health, 17,500; and public welfare, 2,800 workers.

This information is reported in the new Census Bureau publication, 1964 State Distribution of Public Employment, available at 25 cents from the Commerce Department's St. Louis office, 1520 Market Street.

It Was Sneaky, But Expensive

KANSAS CITY AP -- Mrs. Barbara Coffman, a teller at the Suburban National Bank, said she was so excited she couldn't find the switch to turn on the automatic camera which is supposed to take pictures of bank robbers.

A lone operator with a bad left eye got about $6,000 from Mrs. Coffman in a quiet stickup at the bank Wednesday.

Mrs. Coffman described the encounter:

"He came up to the booth, threw a paper sack on the counter, and said: 'Keep smiling lady, and keep filing that up with the green stuff'."

Mrs. Coffman said he told her he had a gun, but she didn't see it and supposed it was under his shirt.

About 15 other employes were unaware of the robbery until the man left by the front door and disappeared.

Missouri Income Increases In 1964

MISSOURI PERSONAL INCOME INCREASES $541,000,000 IN 1964; PER CAPITA INCOME GROWS TO $2,595

Total personal income in Missouri in 1964 amounted to $11,441,000,000 compared with $10,900,000,000 in 1963, reports A. L. Rascher, Jr., director of the St. Louis field office of the U. S. Department of Commerce. This was an increase of $541,000,000 or 5 percent over 1963.

Rascher adds that Missouri's per capita income in 1964 increased 4 percent, from $2,486 in 1963 to $2,595. This was 2 percent greater than the national average of $2,550, which also increased 4 percent during the year. Per capita income is the average income for each man, woman and child.

Total personal income in the United States in 1964 was $487,881,000,000, an increase of 6 percent over the 1963 figure of $461,610,000,000.

In Illinois, total personal income increased 5 percent from $30,020,000,000 in 1963 to $31,495,000,000 in 1964. Per capita income increased 4 percent in 1964, from $2,892 to $3,003.

Per capita income in 1964 in other nearby states was $1,633 in Arkansas, $1,811 in Kentucky, $2,229 in Indiana, $2,311 in Kansas, and $2,370 in Iowa.

These data have just been released by the Office of Business Economics, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Propose To Exempt Non Profit Hospitals

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A proposal to exempt non-profit hospitals from taxation was advanced by the Senate today. The vote was 15-5.

Sen. Jack Curtis, R-Springfield, explained the constitutional change was made necessary by a Supreme Court decision which ended the tax exemption privileges such hospitals had enjoyed for years.

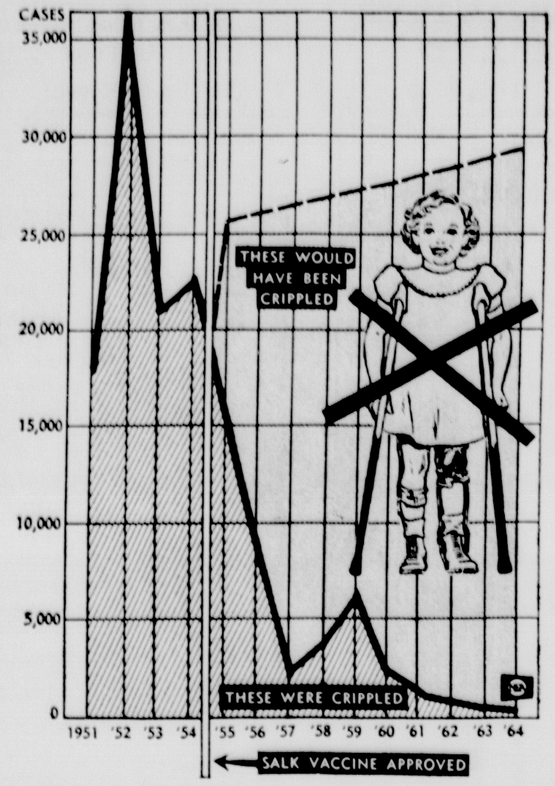
As a result of the decision, he said the Frisco Railway Employes' hospital in St. Louis is being taxed $6,000 a year by the city of St. Louis, the Missouri Pacific employes hospital $14,000 and the health center of Meat Cutters' Local $8,000.

Opponents charged the exemption would merely amount to subsidizing the hospitals at the expense of the taxpayers.

Before advancing the proposal to position for passage, the Senate beat down an amendment that would have exempted household goods and furniture.

Curtis opposed that as a killing amendment. He said household goods in Missouri have an assessed valuation of $171 million and to tack on such an exemption would draw the wrath of schools and local governments.

House members have decided they want their full two years' pay whether they're still in office or not.



DECADE OF DEDICATION—Only 10 years ago (April 12, 1955) the Salk vaccine was declared "safe, effective and potent." In the following decade the number of cases of polio in the U.S. has dropped more than 99 per cent. As a result, last year only 121 cases were reported, a rate of less than one per million in population. The impressive figures make this the most successful story in the history of preventive medicine. Information from National Foundation-March of Dimes.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

CHAPTER XIII
PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION

In the ten year period since the first State Reorganization Commission Report much of the data with respect to the state of Missouri as an employer remained substantially unchanged except for numbers of persons involved. In 1954 the state was the largest single employer with 22,000 full and part-time employees. As of June 30, 1963, the state of Missouri continued to be the largest single employer in the state with a total of 35,000 full and part-time employees. The number of full-time employees in 1963 was 28,000, an increase of 10,600 or about 60 per cent over the number of full-time employees in 1954. The number of part-time employees in 1963 was approximately 7,000, an increase of 2,400 over the number of part-time employees in 1954 or an increase of approximately 52 per cent. The state's annual payroll totaled approximately $48,000,000.00 in 1954 while the annual payroll in 1963 was approximately $150,600,000.00 or an increase of more than 312%

There have been no basic changes in the Constitution of 1945 which provides that certain employees be selected on the basis of merit. All of the departments which were under the merit system in 1955 are still under the merit system. In addition, three agencies have been added to the merit system by legislative and administrative action; the Water Pollution Board which was created in 1957 in the Division of Health is under the merit system; by executive order effective March 1, 1961, the Civil Defense Agency was placed in the Merit system; by executive order effective May 6, 1964, the state Office of Emergency Planning was placed within the merit system. It should be pointed out that the number of additional employees covered by the merit system is relatively small (under 50). The total number of individuals covered currently by the merit system is approximately 11,200. The number of employees covered by the merit system in 1954 was approximately 7,200.

Agencies which have their own personnel systems of a more or less formal nature continue to be the State Highway Department, the Department of Conservation, the Highway Patrol, the Division of Public Schools in the Department of Education, and the state institutions of higher education. The number of individuals covered by the Highway Department merit system is approximately 6,000. There are about 500 persons covered by the Conservation system, and approximately 875 covered by the Highway Patrol system.

The remaining employees in positions in the executive departments and agencies, other than those which have been mentioned, normally are employed outside the channels of examination and merit appointment. In some of these "informal" personnel systems the General Assembly has attempted to provide for bipartisan appointments. This is true with respect to the employees of the Division of Industrial Inspection, and with respect to bank examiners in the Division of Finance, for example.

The functions of the Personnel Division remain substantially unchanged from 1955. They are; recruitment, examination, preparation and maintenance of a position classification plan, preparation and maintenance of a pay plan, preaudit of merit system payrolls, certification of eligibles for vacant positions, establishment and supervision of a system of service ratings and reports, development of in - service training programs, establishment of sick leave and vacation policies, working conditions, retirement, hospitalization, credit union, and other fringe benefits for merit system employees.

Committees Plan Event

Juniors Give AnnualDance For Seniors

Annual junior-senior prom of Sikeston high school is scheduled for tomorrow evening from 8-11 o'clock in the cafetorium. Junior home rooms are sponsoring this social event.

Finances for the dance were earned primarily through a bake sale sponsored by the junior class.

Juniors also earned money by working in the concession stand at the Bulldog house during football season. Mrs. Catherine Matthews and Mrs. Mildred Robinson's home rooms were in charge of the finance.

Music and invitations are provided by Dolan Rogers' home room. Juniors have contacted the "Rock Kings," a group of college students living in Cape Girardeau, to furnish the entertainment for the event.

Mrs. Hemba Young and Bernard Kincy's students are in charge of the decorations for the evening. As is customary, the theme of the dance is a secret.

All the information concerning it is that two or three statues will constitute a portion of the decorations and the theme concerns a foreign country.

Refreshments are provided by Mrs. Thomas Wilkins' home room and W. W. Wilkison's students will clean up after the dance.

Emily Twitty, Malcolm Lee Attend Meet

Seniors Emily Twitty and Malcolm Lee are representing Sikeston in the speech contest in Columbia today.

Emily will compete in the dramatic reading division, and she will perform a section of the play "J.B." Malcolm will enter radio announcing, and his performance will be of impromptu material.

Both students received excellent ratings in the district contest in Cape Girardeau recently. This made them eligible to compete at state.

Robert Walker, speech instructor and sponsor of the National Forensic League, has aided these students in preparing for the meet.

Missouri State Speech Contest is held on the campus of the University of Missouri. Judges are selected from professors of Stephens and the University of Missouri.

Science Award To Sidney Stauffer

Sidney Stauffer, Sikeston sophomore, is the recipient of a National Science Foundation summer school scholarship. This is a secondary science training program to be held at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau this summer.

Sidney was nominated for this award by Mrs. Mildred Robinson, his biology teacher. He is presently enrolled in biology I under Mrs. Robinson. This program will begin June 20 and terminate on July 30.

His program will consist of a minor course in Probability and Statistics, and several courses in Biology of Growth and Development, which he has chosen for his major field.

In his major field the emphasis will be placed on the relationship and developmental mechanisms in vertebrate embryos. Specific areas of study will be nuclearcytoplasmic interactions; inductive mechanisms; effects of endocrines on the development of certain embryos.

Sidney is an active member of Biology Club, National Forensic League, and National Honor Society. He is eagerly anticipating his new experience and is certain to gain much that will be beneficial to him in his further study of biology.

National Library Week Brings Out Alterations

National Library Week was observed in the Sikeston high school library this past week.

From the display of books last week, faculty and students chose the books they would like to see placed on the shelves of the library.

Wide variety of books, ranging from sports and hot rods to history, philosophy, and art, will arrive in the fall to be placed on the shelves.

Sikeston high school library will become a 10,000 volume next school year.

New reference section is another addition to the library. Funds used for this collection were supplied by Memorial donations. These funds make it possible for the librarian to purchase various expensive books, which probably could not be afforded otherwise.

Many more students have been aware of the resource material available in the reference library this year than in years past.

Usually during National Library Week many phamplets, markers, and books have been distributed, but these items did not arrive this year in time for circulation.

Students, remember National Library Week and make a visit to the school library this afternoon.

Mrs. Keith Collins Speaks To National Honor Society

Mrs. Keith Collins spoke to the Veritas Chapter of the National Honor Society of Sikeston high school Tuesday.

In accordance with the emphasis being placed upon an appreciation of the fine arts in the city of Sikeston, Mrs. Collins addressed the members of the society on the importance of the fine arts to them and to their community.

She urged the National Honor Society members as leaders in high school also to accept their role as "tastemakers."

This was the first meeting of the chapter for the new members who were inducted earlier this month.

At the final meeting in May, officers for next year will be elected from the junior members of the organization.

Officers this year are John Struwe, president; Dave Collier, vice-president; Carol Miller, secretary; and Gale Skalsky, treasurer.

Delegates to the state convention of the National Honor Society in Jefferson City reported on their activities. President John Struwe and junior Phil Barkett accompanied by the sponsor Mrs. Catherine Matthews represented the Sikeston chapter.

Copies of the chapter's constitution are being prepared for distribution to the 14 seniors, 12 juniors, and 16 sophomores inducted this month. Following the election of officers at the May meeting, the constitution will be discussed and explained to the new inductees.

MRS. KEITH COLLINS, guest speaker for National Honor Society, spoke on ability and appreciation of fine arts.

Civic Classes Take Field Trip

Members of Mrs. Catherine Matthews and William Clayton's fourth hour civics class will visit localindustries on a field trip next Wednesday.

Half of the classes will tour the telephone office and Hart's Bakery, while the rest of the students will visit Potlatch and Anchor Toy. These tours will be the highlight of a unit on the student's own community.

Seventh hour civics class, directed by Mrs. Matthews, will visit First National Bank and Reiss Dairy the next week. Both classes are working on quarter projects involving oral reports about the local history of their state or city.

City manager Raymert Miller, prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick, and Supt. Lynn Twitty have talked to the classes on their various fields of government.

Sikeston Changes To Daylight Time

EARLY LAST SUNDAY MORNING the City of Sikeston made its first transition to daylight saving time since World War II. This move was taken after a vote by the City Council to adopt the plan to conserve the daylight hours.

Daylight saving movement originated in England with William Willett. In his booklet, "The Waste of Daylight" published in 1907, he set forth the principles upon which the new standardized time is based.

By using his method, man rises an hour earlier, begins work an hour earlier, and finishes an hour earlier; thus, he gains an added hour of daylight for leisure.

Daylight saving time has been in existence for centuries. Agriculture, the oldest of industries, has made worthwhile use of it, as has the bulk of mankind -- in Asia, Africa, Australia, and the agrarian communities of America and Europe.

When the method first came into use, events simply started an hour earlier with no alteration of the clocks. The psychological effect and the fact that the use of this method was not widespred made it disadvantageous.

Main objections to daylight saving are the difficulties connected with the meteorological instruments and the daily international telegraphic reports of synchronous observation of weather reports.

Since neither of these have a direct effect on Sikeston and since many of the surrounding municipalities had done so, Sikeston adopted the daylight saving time and with a few adjustments should find it successful in accomplishing its purpose. - - - - - - - - - - - - - Carol Miller

Knowledge Stays Wisest Investment

DO SIKESTON HIGH SCHOOL students appreciate the school library? If they do not, that is because they have not taken the time and interest needed to investigate the wealth of material that it provides.

Everyone has heard "that knowledge is a wise investment." Students can find no better way to gain knowledge than by taking advantage of this storehouse of facts and fiction at their dispoasl.

Various leaders of the world have educated themselves and have become successful by reading material in a library.

Libraries can be more than a place to find a book needed for that book review the following day. Students may learn a great deal for themselves by browsing through the reference section.

In addition to the encyclopedias and dictionaries, books on special sciences and mathematics, foreign countries and Missouri state histories may be found.

By the time sophomore students become seniors, the value of the library will have increased in the two years. Using the library will assist those special reports, literary criticisms, and also that semi-thesis.

National Library Week was celebrated this week, and Sikeston high school library has 8,747 books, showing that 10 books could be provided for each student.

To appreciate the school library is "to use it wisely." - - - - - - - - - - - - - Joanie Kirk

Independent Researchers Race Clocks

by Carol Miller

During the second semester, 11 seniors of Sikeston high school have been engaged in a new course of study known as independent research. Throughout the weeks of school, they have had full command over their time and the development of their study.

As the calendars and clocks turn to May, the researchers will produce the completed summary of their semester's work. On the whole, the experiment has been very successful, but the climax is reached when every note has to be typed, every book listed in the bibliography, and every student thoroughly informed on his subject.

One of the severe difficulties of this project was the wide variety of subjects chosen by the researchers and the lack of available material in some of the fields. Self-organization was also a difficulty and an adjustment had to be made.

Three of the students were concerned with some phase of history — Patricia Wood with the family relations of the English monarchs, Craig Copsy with firearms, and Elgin Davis with the history and development of Communism.

In the field of literature, Clayton Vandivort has compiled a paper concerned with the development of the American novel, while Carol Miller compared and contrasted the novels of Sinclair Lewis and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Doug Marsh has studied probability; John Marshall concerned himself with electronics from the engineering aspect; and Ronnie Summers has completed his research on atomic energy.

Other researchers are Rob Mitchell who concentrated on the development and application of insurance, Emily Twitty with a study of existentalism and reincarnation, and Steve Poe who dealth with psychology's relationship to selling.

Within the next few weeks, these projects will be completed and turned in to Carl Wright, co-ordinator of the independent research. Designated by Mr. Wright, faculty committee will review the projects with each individual student.

Girls Attend SEMO Terpsichore Show

Thirty - seven girls and their chaperones, Miss Barbara Macke and Miss Linda Woods, attended the terpischore performance at Southeast Missouri State College last Thursday evening, April 22.

Produced by modern dance club, the recital is an annual event; this years' theme was "People In Dance." Among the numbers presented were "Underworld," "High Society," and "Men of the Future."

Miss Macke reported that the girls thoroughly enjoyed the evening. Earlier this year girls' physical education classes experimented in amateur modern dance.

Powers, Hornback, Lingle Enter Mechanics Contest

Seniors Ron Powers, Mike Hornback, and Bill Lingle will participate in the Chrysler Tune-Up Contest in Columbia next Saturday.

Contest will be held at Hickman Stadium at the senior high school.

Approximately 19 high schools from Missouri will send teams to participate in this contest, sponsored by the Chrysler Motor Corporation.

Each team in the competition will consist of two mechanics. Sikeston's team will be chosen from the three boys who attend.

Each team in the competition will be given an automobile to work on, and somewhere in the car will be a "bug."

First team to find and correct the mistake in its car will be declared the winner.

Winners of the state contest will represent Missouri in the national contest in Indianapolis in June. National winners will be awarded scholarships and other valuable prizes.

Jim Turner, auto - mechanics instructor, and J. D. Harper, owner of Goza-Harper in Sikeston, will accompany the boys to Columbia. Mr. Harper is the local sponsor of Sikeston's mechanic team.

Sikeston's team has been training on a 1965 Plymouth donated by the Goza-Harper Motor Company.

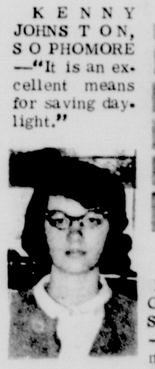
Mr. Turner stated, "All three of these boys are training for this contest and are capable of winning. We hope to bring home the trophy."

Students who can not be present for the try outs on Monday will be allowed to present their speeches Tuesday afternoon. According to Principal Harold Kiehne, "The administration is certainly happy that so many students are taking an interest in participating in commencement activities."

Five Students Give Views On Daylight Savings Time

Sikeston and many other communities in the Bootheel all went on daylight savings time Sunday. This meant that everyone's clock was set forward one hour.

Five students express their views on the practice that makes them "really get up an hour earlier."



KENNY JOHNSTON, SOPHOMORE —"It is an excellent means for saving daylight."

MICHAEL GOSNELL, SOPHOMORE — "I don't mind daylight saving time because we get out of school at 2:30, but we come at 6:30."

JOAN STEPHENSON, SENIOR--- — "It was 'rough' Sunday, but I have almost become accustomed to it now. I once looked forward to summer so that I could get up when it was light, but now when I get up it is dark."

JOHN MARSHALL, SENIOR — "I think it is a much needed change for a growing metropolis like Sikeston. It was really necessary when communities within a half - hour drive of here changed."

EMILY DAVENPORT, JUNIOR — "I dislike daylight savings time because I do things by the sun. For instance when it starts getting dark I start my homework. Now if I do this I do not get to bed till quite late. I wish our City Council would repeal this inconvenience."

Scientific Material Is Timely

by Diane Nunnelee

Science has much to do with the technological world of today. Students wishing to keep up with the "space age" have a vast amount of material from which to choose in Sikeston high school's library.

SCIENCE IN OUR LIVES, by Ritchie Calder, discusses the beginning and development of modern science and its effect on human life. Mr. Calder has presented interesting facts about many of the fields of science and the men related to them.

THE EXCITEMENT OF SCIENCE, by John Rader Platt, gives a "fresh look at man confronting his scientific destiny." The author's style and originality make refreshing reading for young scientists.

GREAT AMERICAN SCIENTISTS, by the editors of "Fortune" magazine, is a four-part book covering the major fields of science and the scientists associated with each field.

Areas covered are physics, chemistry, astronomy, and biology along with brief sketches of great American Scientists in history.

NEW WORLDS IN SCIENCE, by Frank Ross, Jr., presents the reader with the story of basic research in the major fields of science. Mr. Ross' clear and concise presentation plus the various illustrations make for engrossed reading.

Robert Froman attempts to show young people what they can do for science in WANTED —AMATEUR SCIENTISTS. According to the author, no matter what one's interest in science, whether big or small, something is there to hold his attention and make for a useful hobby.

Students glancing through the science books while in the library might try to find a facet of entertainment unknown to him before.

SOUTHEAST MISSOURI NEWS SIDELIGHTS, FEATURES AND OBSERVATIONS.

By MAX STURM

THE FAMILY PLANNING CLINIC, sponsored by the Pemiscot County Health Center, which was introduced in January is now off the ground and flying okay, according to John S. Duncan, the center's administrator.

Pemiscot was the first county in Missouri to adopt the program. The Dunklin County Health Center followed with a similar set-up and other counties in the state are in process of trying to set it up in their areas.

The first clinic held by the Pemiscot Center in Hayti was on the second Friday in January with others being held on the second Friday of each month since then. So much interest has been generated in the program, Duncan said, that plans are being made to hold an additional clinic each month.

The clinic is held at the health center under the supervision of a physician - member of the Pemiscot County Medical Society. The center furnishes two registered nurses to work with him. Duncan was enthusiastic in his praise of the cooperating medical society and indicated that in trying to set up an additional clinic each month it involved asking the society to furnish a physician for it, "and that just might be asking too much," he added.

Currently, the clinic is limited to a maximum of 12 women each session, a new group each month.

According the health center's basic outline and rules, the purpose of the program is "to provide a family planning clinic to dispense birth-control information and supply oral contraceptives and birth-control devices to indigent married women and unmarried mothers with one or more pregnancies who voluntarily request such services. Services shall be in keeping with the patient's personal and religious beliefs."

The program, as approved by the Pemiscot County Medical Society, lists the following:

PATIENTS WHO ARE ELIGIBLE FOR THE CLINIC: Any patient referred by the private physician; any Department of Public Welfare married recipient as approved by the private physician, or one who has one or more children; any medically indigent married individual and any medically indigent person 21 years of age and over who has had one or more children, as approved by the private physician.

The general policies of the clinic are listed as follows:

1. Patients who are Public Welfare recipients should be contacted by the Welfare Department by letter or a visit and the purpose of the clinic explained to them.

2. On the first clinic visit, the patient will receive a complete physical examination by the physician including weight, blood pressure, tuberculin test, VDRL, urine examination, heart, chest and a Pap smear.

3. The doctor will recommend drug dosage and/or other contraceptive devices.

4. Patients will be instructed to return to the clinic after the first month to talk with the nurse; after six months, then annual visits should be sufficient. The nurse will interview the patients and dispense the drug. Patients who are having problems will be referred to her doctor.

5. All patients under 21 years of age must have a signed consent slip from parent or guardian.

6. All patients shall apply under signature as beneficiaries of the clinic.

The health center's basic plan also lists its determination of the need for such a program:

"The world today is facing a man-made crisis -- population 'explosion.' If current growth rates remain unchanged, the population will rise to six billion by the year 2000. At this rate it is conceivable that within 600 years the number of human beings on earth will be so vast that each person will have only one square yard to live on.

"In recent times man's struggle to survive has achieved a success that has rocked the balance of life. Many diseases have been brought under control and together with miracle drugs these advances have produced what has been described as 'death control.' The boundaries of the earth are fixed; they cannot be expanded. Man must, therefore, in some way control his expanding population rate in this battle between production and reproduction.

"It is unthinkable to most of us to check population growth by killing people. Thus, the only course open to us is to use some acceptable method of bringing birth rates into today's low death rates.

"Physical and mental conditions often limit the income of parents, and the birth of an excessive number of children in the family causes poverty and want to prevail. Children may suffer from lack of proper diet and care. The health of the mother may be jeopardized by bearing and caring for too many children. In some instances the very structure of the family is destroyed by the desertion of one or both parents when the psychological pressure and monetary problems arise due to too large a family. Fear of bearing another child sometimes creates tensions between husband and wife and generally hinders the establishment of satisfactory relations."

The success of such family planning programs is greatly dependent on the relatively new oral contraceptives, commonly called "The Pill." An additional aid, according to Duncan, is the newer IUCD (Intrauterine Contraceptive Device), a plastic or stainless steel item that, according to McCall's Magazine, has also proven remarkably effective for preventing pregnancy. The pill method requires its users' strict adherence to a regimen of one tablet a day for 20 days a month, but by strict adherence of this schedule a highest degree of protection is acquired. The ICUD method, while costing considerably less than the constant usage of the pills, involves the installation of the device by a physician and prescribed check-ups later on to ensure that the device remains in place and no complications have arisen.

The Pemiscot Health Center's program calls for the use of either method as determined by the physican, Duncan said. He added that the physical examination portion of the program had, so far, discovered one case of cancer of cervix in an early stage that the patient didn't know she had. She was referred to a hospital specializing in cancer treatment.

has been the center of rebel activity.

In many cases, emergency surgery was performed without anesthetics. The city was largely without electricity or water.

American reinforcements poured in by sea and air. Some 1,200 Marines came ashore Thursday from Navy ships offshore, joining 500 others who had landed Wednesday to begin the evacuation of American citizens and other refugees.

Shortly after midnight two battalions of the U. S. 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N. C. -- 2,500 men - began landing at the San Isidro base 20 miles from Santo Domingo. The base is the headquarters of the forces trying to quell the rebellion.

The Marines had set up an evacuation center at a polo field near the plush Embajador Ambassador Hotel on the outskirts of Santo Domingo. U. S. officials said Thursday night that 1,400 refugees, most of them Americans, had been evacuated. They said 650 were waiting at the hotel and at the polo grounds, and many others were still in Santo Domingo.

The Marines rescued 150 Latin-American nationals from the downtown area.

Refugees were being processed at the Embajador by U.S. Navy personnel. They were accepting all Americans or citizens of other countries, plus Dominicans who show evidence of an American in the family.

Evacuees were taken to the polo field, where tents have been erected. They waited there for helicopters to take them to the aircraft carrier Boxer offshore.

Each refugee was allowed to take a maximum of two bags. Many left carrying children in their arms.

The Marines also set up defense around the hotel, which was packed with foreign residents or tourists caught in the fighting.

One unit of Marines guarded the U. S. Embassy. Thursday they killed two rebel snipers who fired at them from a rooftop and apartment windows. The Marines shot back from the cover of automobiles parked on the three - shaded lawn of the embassy. No Marine casualties were reported.

At least three other snipers were killed by Dominican troops.

Embassies of El Salvador, Peru, Mexico and Ecuador reported similar sniper attacks.

The State Department announced that "emergency action is being taken by the United States to provide food, medical supplies, and emergency hospital facilities to assist the victims of the present violence."

"The situation in Santo Domingo has continued to deteriorate," the State Department said. "Law and order have ceased to exist. Calls for cease-fire have thus far been ignored."

The United States planned to send in mobile hospital units, including one from Puerto Rico. But some of the roving bands of rebels have failed to respect the Red Cross symbol.

U.S. officials said Col. Francisco Caamano had emerged as the leader of the rebel army officers.

The chieftain of the military junta is Col. Pedro Bartolomei Benoit, an air force officer. He was one of three men picked by Gen. Elias Wessin, the military strongman in the Dominican Republic, to make up a junta after the rebels forced the civilian triumvirate headed by Donald Reid Cabral to resign.

Benoit wrote Ambassador Bennett Thursday requesting U.S. Marines for "temporary intervention and assistance in restoring order."

Glenn W. Dixon, 926 N. Kingshighway, Sikeston, is charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and having no City sticker.

On TV

NEW YORK AP -- It is very probable that a team of producers named Phil D'Antoni and Norman Baer have done more for arm - chair rubber necking than anyone since the days of Burton Holmes of the lectures and Fitzpatrick of the movie travel talks. They invented, for all practical purposes, the television star-guided tour.

Perhaps Princess Grace's dignified "Tour of Monaco" a few seasons back was the seed, but the idea really blossomed with "Elizabeth Taylor in London" and "Sophia Loren in Rome," the first two D'Antoni-Baer super-travelogues. Their success not only established the production firm but brought them a flood of offers by the great and near-great eager to guide future TV tours.

Coming up next Monday is their special "Melina Mercouri's Greece," on ABC.

"You don't want stars who are seen very much - and that immediately eliminates all the popular television names, except Bob Hope, who is in a special category. We did have some preliminary talks about a 'Lucille Ball in Ireland' -- she's Irish of course - but it couldn't be worked out," Baer said.

Next season, in addition to turning out a couple of their specialties, Baer and D'Antoni will produce six ABC specials starring Robert Preston. Each will explore the geography and characteristics of a different region of the United States.

COMMUNITY HEALTH FORUM

Dr. James Q. Simmons, Jr., associate medical and research director of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society answers your questions on multiple sclerosis.

Q What is known about multiple sclerosis?

A Multiple sclerosis is a disabling disease of the central nervous system. Called the great crippler of young adults, it attacks the substance which sheathes nerve fibers causing nerve messages controlling movement, vision, speech and balance to be distorted, often blocked.

Q Whom does MS strike?

A MS strikes most often at young adults in the 20 to 40 age range, during the years when they should be most vital, most productive. An estimated 500,000 Americans suffer from MS and related diseases.

Q Does MS lead to total physical disability?

A Though MS can be progressive, often leading to total disability, with proper medical supervision, most MS patients continue to be active, vital people.

Q Is there a cure for MS at the present time?

A There is no specific known medical management which alters the natural unpredictable course of the disease which is one of worsening, followed by periods of improvement achieving a plateau where no change takes place. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society recommends good general medical care devoted to the prevention of intercurrent infectious illness and directed toward the control of the more distressing symptoms as they appear.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Friday, April 30, the 120th day of 1965. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first president of the United States in a ceremony in New York City, then the capital of the new nation.

On this date

In 1598, an expedition led by Juan de Onate arrived at the Rio Grande River opposite what is now El Paso, Texas, and took possession of the country for Spain.

In 1810, the U.S. general post-office was established.

In 1812, the 18th state, Louisiana, was admitted to the union.

In 1939, the New York World's Fair was opened by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1945, Moscow announced that the Soviet flag had been raised over the ruins of the Reichstag in Berlin; on the same day Adolf Hitler died in a bunker 30 feet under the city.

Ten years ago — President Dwight Eisenhower disclosed he had exchanged correspondence with Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov which might "lead to some betterment of the world situation."

Five years ago — Bridge playing teams of the United Arab Republic and Lebanon were ordered not to have any contact with the Israeli team at the World Bridge Olympiad in New York.

Mail Box

Hon. Hunter Phillips, Chairman
Missouri State Tax Commission
Jefferson City, Missouri

Dear Judge:

I certainly appreciate the effort you made last week when you drove to Stoddard County to meet with our County officials, school board members and administrators and other interested citizens. It was the general concensus that this was the first productive meeting held on Stoddard County tax assessments in recent years.

The present method of determining ratio of true value for our present tax assessments is, in my opinion, grossly unfair for the citizens of Stoddard County and an impartial revue of our situation will substantiate this feeling.

Very briefly, our situation in Stoddard County has resulted in three 10% real estate evaluation increases during the past three years while, at the same time, our ratio to true value has decreased on a County wide basis from over 26% to 20.5%.

This situation has resulted because the information on which you base your ratio studies has been furnished to the State Tax Commission, on a large part, by the utilities who benefit from the reduction in tax levies that are required by law when you force additional assessments on a blanket basis upon any county.

The erroneous information that you have been furnished for your ratio studies has resulted in our public schools of Stoddard County losing approximately $55,000. per year from State Foundation Funds.

I respectfully request that immediate action be taken by your office to restudy the per cent of true value of the assessments of real estate in Stoddard County. I have every confidence that such a study will show that the real estate in Stoddard County is assessed somewhat near 30% of true value. This is certainly important for the public schools of Stoddard County and the benefits to be received from such a study by the children involved will make this request a reasonable one under the circumstances.

I hope you will let me hear from you with a favorable decision on my request as rapidly as practical.

Yours very truly,
TOM BAKER

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a nice looking, middle-aged woman who is slightly overweight. I love good food and I am not going to starve to death to squeeze into a size 14. I see no point in trying to be a carbon copy of those emaciated, consumptive woman who call themselves models.

A friend of mine is as skinny as a rat. She passes up desserts and never touches candy, ice cream or sodas. (She says she doesn't care for them.) How can anyone NOT care for hot fudge sauce, whipped cream cake and lemon meringue pie? Is it possible that she just SAYS she doesn't like these things and that she is really dying inside? I say she is. What do you say? The whole club wants to know.--PLEASINGLY PLUMP

Dear Plump: I hope I don't ruin your day, Doll, but it is entirely possible that the skinny rat has no interest in pies, cakes, fudge sauce and other calorie-laden foods.

Some people have a perpetual sweet tooth. Others just don't crave rich foods and can live very nicely without them.

(P. S. I enjoy desserts, candy, fudge sauce and the works--and I've been a size 10 for 27 years. So now you can hate both of us.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am in my middle twenties and the mother of three children. Their father was killed in the service last year.

Several months ago I fell in love with a musician who works odd jobs part-time and is now unemployed. Virgil is divorced and his ex-wife has remarried. She has their two children.

I invited Virgil to move in because he was over here all the time anyway. Besides, it was too hard on me to drive him to his rooming house every night, sometimes as late as 4 o'clock in the morning.

When my relatives and friends asked when we got married I was ashamed to tell them the truth so I made up a date. Virgil has not mentioned marriage but I think he would marry me if I asked him to. To be honest I don't want to get married because I would lose the government check that I've gotten ever since my husband was killed. Please give me some practical advice.--DILLY

Dear Dilly: Any man who would move in and allow a widow and her children to support him can't be much. Give this parasite the heave-ho and find yourself a decent man who wants to be a husband and a father.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you aren't a doctor, but can you tell me (and millions of other women) what to do about feet that hurt all the time?

I am a receptionist and must look well from 9 to 5. My legs are a bit on the heavy side and high heels are a must for me.

I tried attractive flats to see if my feet felt better and ended up with terrible pains in my calves. Now I am back on high heels and my feet are killing me.

Are aching feet part of a woman's lot? If you say so I'll accept it and shut up. --BARKING DOGS

Dear Dogs: You can do two things to quiet those barking dogs.

(1) Massage your feet with cream (any kind) every night before going to bed.

(2) Buy larger shoes even if it means going up a whole size. Some women don't realize that their feet get larger as time marches on. They continue to ask for the same size instead of a shoe that fits properly.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BEAUTY, WITH TRADITION... YORKTOWN

Probably no other wood can be so fashioned as to equal the naturally rich and warm beauty of Maple — and certainly no other Maple furniture is so distinctively designed and so painstakingly crafted as "Yorktown" by Flanders.

"Yorktown" is a luxuriously created, yet realistically priced correlation of open stock Solid Maple bedroom and dining room furniture, which handsomely upholds the finest traditions of Early American style. Illustrated here are the lovely Bookcase Bed; the spacious Triple Dresser, with polished plate glass non-distortion mirror; the large upright Chest; and the charming, yet generous Commode. All cases feature oak-reinforced, center-guided drawers with cedar-lined storage areas; and all pieces offer hidden nylon casters for ease of movement. Added value may be found in the solid brass hardware and the exclusive Flanders seven-step finishing process, which includes hand wooling and waxing.

Lavish yourself with luxury — at a price so low you'll have to ask a second time to be certain you heard correctly. See our "Yorktown" selection, by Flanders, very soon.

Building Design Of

First National Bank

Structure is reinforced concrete frame with long span pre-stretched T-Beams forming clear story roof over the central part of the banking area. The exterior design emphasizes the combination of the concrete structure and brick walls. The plan consists essentially of a large rectangular banking area with two connecting passages around an interior landscaped court connecting to the Installment Loan Department and a public Community Room. The specific character of the interior design consists of exposed brick walls, considerable walnut and teak paneling. All cabinet work, including teller counters, is in walnut, which wood is used in total design scheme and furnishings. The basement includes facilities for the Data Processing Room, Employee's Lounge, Director's Room, and mechanical facilities and storage. A public elevator serving the basement is close to the main entrance. The total first floor area is 7450 square feet. The basement floor area consists of 4700 square feet. The building is placed in the center of a large site which consists of 68,300 square feet, including parking for 46 cars. In addition to this, considerable area is devoted to landscaped spaces, with drive extending around building to two drive-in windows and night depository.

The entire building is completely air conditioned with air temperature control.

Still More Marines Move Into Dominican Republic

INGO, Dominican Republic AP --American airborne troops landed in the Dominican Republic early today, swelling the number of U. S. forces in the country to 4,200 men as civil war dragged Santo Domingo to the point of anarchy.

The two-day-old military junta appealed for intervention by American troops to help restore order, but U. S. officials said action other than to protect American lives and property would require authorization from the Organization of American States.

However, President Johnson's administration was authoritatively reported in Washington to be on the alert for action to meet any Communist threat to take over the Dominican Republic or plunge it into a Communist "war of liberation."

U. S. officials in Santo Domingo released a list of 52 members of Dominican Communist organizations who they said were believed to have played key roles in the six-day-old rebellion. Beside the name of each man was the Communist country where he was said to have trained--Cuba, China or the Soviet Union.

The rebellion was launched by a group of young army artillery officers seeking to return ousted President Juan Bosch to office. But U. S. officials in Santo Domingo and other observers believe no one now is in control--or could regain control-- of the armed rebel bands, which include many young civilians.

American officials hinted strongly that it would be necessary for American troops to occupy Santo Domingo to end the fighting.

"The rebels are a determined group of people who have gone beyond the point of no return, and they are going to keep going until they bring the country down around their necks," one observer said.

Officials said the situation was rapidly approaching anarchy--a total absence of government, law and order.

Estimates of the dead ranged from 400 to more than 1,000. However, no American casualties were reported.

In Washington, the United States asked the OAS to call on the battling Dominican factions to establish an international neutral zone at Santo Domingo for the safety of refugees.

U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, attending a meeting of the OAS Council which lasted until the early hours today, proposed that the hemispheric organization send a peace committee to Santo Domingo to seek a cease-fire.

The OAS called a meeting in Washington Saturday of American foreign ministers to deal with the "grave situation."

In Santo Domingo, U. S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett said he had conferred repeatedly with leaders of both sides in quest of a cease-fire but had failed in each attempt.

Heavy gunfire raged all through Thursday and into the evening. It died down around midnight.

It was a fluid war, with roving groups on each side, much sniping and sharp clashes when opposing groups encountered each other. Most of the fighting was hit-and-run.

On the rebel side were army troops and civilians armed by the rebel army group over the weekend. Supporting the junta were the air force, the navy and some army troops.

A major battle broke out as a band of rebels armed with automatic rifles, hatchets and knives attacked police headquarters in downtown Santo Domingo. The police retained control of the fortress. Casualties suffered by both sides were not known.

Most of the damage has been concentrated in the downtown area, which except for the fighting forces is virtually deserted. Most stores are closed and shuttered. Travel about the city streets is extremely hazardous.

Large numbers of soldiers and members of the National Police were reported to have taken off their uniforms and gone home.

Thousands were reported injured in the fighting or in strafing and bombing attacks by planes operating from the junta's headquarters at the San Isidro Air Base, 20 miles from the center of Santo Domingo.

Hospitals in the downtown area Thursday night were receiving large numbers of persons, including women and children, with gunshot and shrapnel wounds. A majority of the victims were from the Ciudad Nueva, New City area, a low income housing project which

Pleas Of Guilty Heard, Divorces Granted In Court

NEW MADRID -- A man was sentenced, a probation was revoked and two divorces were granted in the final session of the January Term of the New Madrid County Circuit Court here Tuesday, according to Van H. Sharp Jr., clerk of the court.

Sharp said that the new May Term of the court will open on Monday, May 3, when criminal case guilty pleas will probably be heard and the civil and criminal docket for the term set.

The judge removed the probation of Donald Eugene Cagle that had been granted May 6, 1963, after Cagle had entered a plea of guilty to charges of burglary and larceny and had been sentenced to four years.

Rose Miller was granted a decree of divorce in her suit against Dale Miller and Judge Ragland awarded custody of three minor children to plaintiff.

A decree of divorce was also granted by the judge in the suit of Glenna Jean Jones against Kenneth Lee Jones, with the plaintiff receiving custody of a minor child.

Kennett Man Dies From Injuries At Road Junction

In Troop E area, Joseph Hollifield, 65, Kennett, died of injuries at 5:15 p.m. Thursday, when his 1961 pickup was struck by a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by John Kitchen, 82, Bell City.

Kitchens received critical injuries to his chest, head, as well as lacerations, and was taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital for treatment, and later transferred to the John Gaston Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. Hollifield was driving west on Highway 84, five miles from Kennett, when Kitchen was traveling south on Highway A, failed to stop at the junction, and struck the Hollifield car in the side.

In an accident at 4:10 a.m. today on Highway 25 in Delta, two International tractor-trailers met on a curve, causing one of the vehicles to catch fire and be completely destroyed.

Robert Dickey, 42, Texarkana, Tex., was traveling north, with his tractor-trailer loaded with explosives, with his vehicle over the center line as he was rounding the curve. Driving south was Robert Geringer, 55, Cape Girardeau, also with a trailer-tractor and loaded with plywood, which caught fire after it had been struck in the left front.

The accident blocked the roadway for several hours, but fortunately the truck loaded with explosives did not catch fire. Dickey was taken to the Southeast Missouri Hospital with multiple head lacerations, and was also arrested for careless and reckless driving.

Woman Has Same Phone Number As White House

NEW YORK AP -- "Hello, is this the White House?" The called asked.

"No, sir, I'm sorry," the woman replied in a soft, pleasant voice. "You have to dial Area Code 202. You probably didn't dial the correct area code, sir."

Patient, polite Rose Brown, a housewife in Queens, on Long Island, has said the same thing many times since she had her telephone number changed last July. But, she loves having the same number as the White House because, as she puts it:

"I'm very much alone. I don't have any relatives other than my husband and a married daughter. When people call me, we get into conversation. It's more or less of a little chatter. It's good therapy for me."

She declined to disclose her age, quipping, "I'm well over 21."

Mrs. Brown's number duplicates the White House number --456-1414 -- except for the area code. It is 212 in New York and 202 in Washington.

Last July when Mrs. Brown returned home from the hospital, she changed the phone number she had for 19 years to avoid calls from friends asking about her illness, which she didn't want to talk about.

One little boy who called told her: "I'm very poor and we would like the President to send $5."

Another boy asked for a picture of the President.

A letter Mrs. Brown got from President Johnson came to light Thursday.

It said in part: "I couldn't be more gratified to know that you are handling these calls with all the diplomacy of an ambassador and the warmth of an understanding woman.

"I suppose as long as our telephone numbers are so similar, if you will do the best that you can in handling White House calls, I assure you we will do the best that we can in handling calls for the Brown family."

CHARLESTON -- The absentee votes changed the outcome in the Charleston R-1 school board race on Tuesday, when the three-year term changed one of the two candidates, Mrs. Clifton Banta, as the second victor.

She had trailed Dennis Quertermous and Woodrow Graham, with their vote being 622 and 602 respectively, with 597 for Mrs. Banta. The absentee vote count gave her 40 votes, to 2 for Quertermous and 4 for Graham, with Robert Jackson leading the quartet with 80 absentee votes. The final count was, Jackson 876, Mrs. Banta 637, Quertermous 624, and Graham 606.

The official count for the one-year term gave victors, Fred Moxley 906 and Jim Moreton 712, to 599 for O. T. Dalton and 464 for C. R. Gemeinhardt.

For the two year term, Robert Delaney and Harry Sutherland were unopposed with 1189 and 1083 votes respectively.

G. A. Robinson Declared Winner

On April 20, The Daily Standard ran a picture of flood workers, standing on top of the Wolf Island Loop Emergency Levee, requesting identification of the men, location and date. The picture was taken in 1937 on the Miles T. Lee land on Wolf Island. The identification of the men appears in the cutlines above.

There were many entries but Mr. G. A. Robinson (number 15 in the picture) identified 26 out of a possible 34. A check for $5.00 is in the mail to Mr. Robinson of Memphis, Tennessee. Mrs. Bob Maxwell, Rt. 2 Sikeston, was second, naming 24 persons correctly. Mr. Hunt Willborn, East Prairie, was third, naming 21 correctly.

The emergency levee was started May 3, 1937 and completed May 10, 1937 about midnight. The picture was made the following afternoon just before everyone went aboard the Steamer Chisca to ride around Wolf Island enjoying a steak dinner.

The Standard appreciated all the interest in the picture and we hope to bring you more of this type of feature in the future.

Still More Marines Move Into Dominican Republic

INGO, Dominican Republic AP --American airborne troops landed in the Dominican Republic early today, swelling the number of U. S. forces in the country to 4,200 men as civil war dragged Santo Domingo to the point of anarchy.

The two-day-old military junta appealed for intervention by American troops to help restore order, but U. S. officials said action other than to protect American lives and property would require authorization from the Organization of American States.

However, President Johnson's administration was authoritatively reported in Washington to be on the alert for action to meet any Communist threat to take over the Dominican Republic or plunge it into a Communist "war of liberation."

Kennett Man Dies From Injuries At Road Junction

In Troop E area, Joseph Hollifield, 65, Kennett, died of injuries at 5:15 p.m. Thursday, when his 1961 pickup was struck by a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by John Kitchen, 82, Bell City.

Kitchens received critical injuries to his chest, head, as well as lacerations, and was taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital for treatment, and later transferred to the John Gaston Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. Hollifield was driving west on Highway 84, five miles from Kennett, when Kitchen was traveling south on Highway A, failed to stop at the junction, and struck the Hollifield car in the side.

In an accident at 4:10 a.m. today on Highway 25 in Delta, two International tractor-trailers met on a curve, causing one of the vehicles to catch fire and be completely destroyed.

G. A. Robinson Declared Winner

On April 20, The Daily Standard ran a picture of flood workers, standing on top of the Wolf Island Loop Emergency Levee, requesting identification of the men, location and date. The picture was taken in 1937 on the Miles T. Lee land on Wolf Island. The identification of the men appears in the cutlines above.

There were many entries but Mr. G. A. Robinson (number 15 in the picture) identified 26 out of a possible 34. A check for $5.00 is in the mail to Mr. Robinson of Memphis, Tennessee. Mrs. Bob Maxwell, Rt. 2 Sikeston, was second, naming 24 persons correctly. Mr. Hunt Willborn, East Prairie, was third, naming 21 correctly.

The emergency levee was started May 3, 1937 and completed May 10, 1937 about midnight. The picture was made the following afternoon just before everyone went aboard the Steamer Chisca to ride around Wolf Island enjoying a steak dinner.

The Standard appreciated all the interest in the picture and we hope to bring you more of this type of feature in the future.

THE PLANNERS' THOUGHTS

It has been said that the liberal segment of American politics may well be responsible some day for the death of the very republic which makes possible the free expression of liberal philosophy. Understandably, the liberals hurl the charge right back. Right or wrong, the thought of the ruination of one's country certainly puts the importance of informed thought and action in proper perspective for all to see.

So, it is incumbent upon all to examine the liberal motivation behind the signing of the test-ban treaty, liberalized trade with Soviet bloc nations, and the goal of an expanded, more powerful United Nations.

That force, or motivation, according to Robert Morris, is found in the title of his new book, Disarmament: Weapon of Conquest. Mr. Morris declares that the aim of the liberal elite, the top level policymakers in the U. S. government, is to form a World Government, backed by an all - powerful peace force. A necessary part of this goal is the destruction of American nationalism -- in fact, of all nationalism in the present era of rising nationalism. Morris thus uncovers an anomaly, and perhaps a self-destroying fault of the disarmament and One World ideas. He points out that the planners realize that these ideas may be anachronistic and have launched on a "Think Factory" public relations program subsidized by the U. S. taxpayer.

Morris, also author of No Wonder We Are Losing, says there is no truth to the charge that the U. S. has no foreign policy. There is one, and it goes by an old familiar title - "The No-Win Policy." This is part and parcel of the step-at-a-time advance toward extinction of nationalism and the establishment of One World Government.

In building his case, Morris says we must remember the "outcroppings" of U. S. policy which Americans have heard about. From time to time, planners have said the United States should not directly oppose the communists. At the time of these outcroppings, the emerging policy was not set forth clearly. Then, Morris says, they dropped two bombs -- the disarmament program and the Rostow Memorandum.

The memorandum was born, nurtured and brought up under the care of Walter Rostow, Chief Policy Planner of the U. S. State Department. The memo embraces the thesis that the Soviet Union is mellowing and that an area of overlapping interests is developing.

Among other things, the memo proposes: expanded contact with Red China, placing it in the same status as Yugoslavia and Poland; that capitalism cannot triumph over communism; gentle treatment of satellite nations, including total abstinence from provocation and criticism; transaction of business with East Germany; and no support for uprisings within satellite nations.

At this point, Morris comments that Americans do not know that this is State Department policy and therefore cannot understand why the U. S. does not help the Cuban exiles, or why tax dollars lavishly bestowed upon dictators such as Tito, Gomulka and Sukarno.

In such a pure air - cleared magically of suspicion and doubt - disarmament is to be more readily accomplished. The U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has already reported out an eight-point program which calls for general and complete disarmament culminating in a U. N. Peace Force. This is what Soviet Premier Khrushchev requested of the United Nations in 1959, and Morris says this is U. S. policy today. In saying that the United States is being put off balance by the Soviets, Morris agrees with Earl Voss, author of the excellent book, NUCLEAR AMBUSH, The Test-Ban Trap. Voss merely put it another way: In the test moratorium of the late 1950's, the Soviet Union tied up the U. S. nuclear testing program with a "clever combination of propaganda. . . and diabolical statesmanship."

Morris underlines what seems to be incredible U. S. "statesmanship" by reminding that while the Soviet Union was moving its expeditionary force across the Atlantic to Cuba, the U. S. was offering the Russians a treaty to implement general and complete disarmament. The word, "incredible," is used in a spirit of charity only: the disarmament proposal assumes that the USSR is a peace-loving nation -- an assumption which the USSR has gone to great lengths and expense to disprove.

As Morris puts it: "The missiles in Cuba, the terror campaigns in Viet Nam and Angola, the shootings at the Berlin Wall, the implacable drive in South America -- all make Walt Rostow sound fantastic."

Disarmament, Morris goes on, is being used as a cover for the creation of an international rule of law, or world goverment, under which all nations would be held in check by an all-powerful international army and an international court of law.

What is wrong with this goal? To Morris, the idea might be a thrilling concept if the United Nations (the framework of the concept) were made up of idealistic men and nations. The fact is, Morris says, the U. S. is not so composed. The idealistic goal of the misty-eyed liberals will be successful only with permanent Soviet good faith. The record "simply does not support the idealistic conclusions of our policy leaders. This, indeed, is a very dangerous game they are playing."

For additional proof, the author cites the U. N. Secretariat, in which hardened Soviet nationals hold highly - important posts. What is "most inconceivable" is that these militant communists could be objective international civil servants. Equally as disturbing is the trend toward unilateral disarmament as seen in the withdrawal and dismantling of important U. S. weapons. Morris offers proof of the trend.

Perhaps the most intriguing section of Morris's book is the revelation about the "Think Factories." He quotes columnist Edith Kermit Roosevelt that these "factories" are financed by the U. S. Government, and that one of them, the Institute for Defense Analysis, has received contracts from the Defense Department and State Department. At times, the IDA has:

Promoted Red China as the "real" threat in order to promote peaceful coexistence with the USSR.

Suggested Quemoy and Matsu be turned over to Red China to enlarge the difference between Red China and the USSR.

Suggested that if the USSR does not disarm, the U. S. should; this with the aim of inducing reciprocation.

Morris is at his most eloquent after quoting Mr. Rostow to the effect that disarmament will make the world safe for ideological differences. Morris' reply: "A rather preposterous notion when dealing with an ideology dedicated to the extinction of diversity."

Morris builds a nostalgic longing for a realistic and American foreign policy. He offers an intimate glimpse at how U. S. planners think, and such a book would be a valuable asset to any bookshelf.

H. L. Hunt Says

BACK TO BUFFALO BILL

Having worked when young as a cowhand, in 1945 I purchased ranches in the Powder River Basin near Miles City, Montana. After hearing fantastic stories of grasshopper plagues, I wanted a grasshopper-proof ranch and bought the Hoodoo ranches near Cody, Wyoming in 1948.

The several ranches, including some once owned by William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), were thrown together by wealthy Englishman W. R. Coe. They lie along the Shoshone and Greybull Rivers and Sage and Pine Creeks.

Hoodoo consisted of deeded land, Taylor grazing-tracts and forest permits totalling over 250,000 acres, with 5,000 acres irrigated land growing alfalfa.

Livestock consisted of 100 horses, 5,000 cows, 900 heifers and 10,000 sheep. The mother-cow herd was the finest Herefords in the country. All were pure bred although registration papers had not been kept.

My representative bought the outfit complete from U. S. Senator E. V. Robertson, including the furniture in the newly constructed headquarters house. Dale Petit, a noted forester, cattleman, ranch manager and once dude wrangler at the Valley Ranch Resort on the Lower Fork of the Shoshone was installed as manager.

Preferring to run a steer herd, we auctioned the famous cow-herd and reduced the investment from $1,900,000 to $1,200,000.

Hoodoo has never been operated as a hobby. Grazing operations netted $396,000 in one year running steers which were always cornfed in commercial feed lots near Omaha. I have had as many as 16,000 head on feed at one time fattening to grade choice.

The Frost Ranch House built of great logs, near what became Hoodoo headquarters, was traditional as a stagecoach inn where western notables lodged, including Owen Wister while finishing his book, The Virginian.

The ranch was not bought for oil production, but now embraces 2 oil fields which expedited the payout. HLH

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — You know how to say "Slide, Kelly, slide" in Spanish?

"Slide, Pedro, slide."

That's how.

It may be stretching the point to use this old baseball phrase as a sample, but the truth is that from Tijuana to Tierre del Fuego the natives are putting lots of English to their Spanish.

The result is a jivey "Spanglish" that has saddened purists. They blame it all on what they call "el snobismo."

The creature of lightning-swift communication of new cultures, ideas and expressions, English-accented Spanish may be more than just a passing fad. It seems to be giving the mother tongue a flexibility to meet the communication needs of Latin America's younger generations.

One day in 1960, while haranguing against American influences in Cuban life, Fidel Castro suddenly — and uncharacteristically — seemed at a loss for the right word to describe the extent of counterrevolutionary activity in the country. He finally blurted out it had become a "hobby."

Because of their proximity to the United States, Cuba and Mexico are believed to have pioneered the injection of simple English expressions into the language.

Television and movies have been major vehicles in recent times.

Today there's hardly an English word that doesn't fit or gets thrown in somewhere in everday Spanish.

Some examples:

Housing — the important question to ask is how big is the "living" room is deleted and does the apartment come with kitchenette spelled "quichenet" in some countries. You may be told it has an ample "hall" and that the rent can be discussed in another "interview."

Clothing — The young girl looking for a shorty negligee needs only ask for "un baby doll." Bikini is common, as are "shorts" for bathing trunks and "sweater."

Travel — The only way to go is "pro jet," making certain to take "muchos travelers checkes." The resort is certain to have quite a few "whiskerias" and "bar grills."

Why is this happening to Spanish?

In Argentina, at least, says a university professor, French influence is on the decline and English has become the second language. This could be true of the rest of the Americas, he added.

WASHINGTON — There's been a bitter backstage battle in the House Agricultural Committee over the question of putting Negroes on local agricultural stabilization and conservation committees.

The battle affects several hundred thousand Negro sharecroppers in the deep South and could jeopardize subsidy payments to tobacco and cotton farmers. Northern Democrats have been willing to go along with these rich subsidy payments for the sake of party harmony. But the civil rights issue has become so important in the north that this support could easily be withdrawn and if so the farm bill would be defeated.

This is one reason the arguments over Negro participation in the Southern farm program have been held with no northern Congressman present.

To avoid leaks, southern Congressmen met privately with Horace Godfrey, head of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Godfrey is from North Carolina. So is Chairman Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee. Present were representatives L. H. Fountain and Ross Taylor, also of North Carolina, together with such pillars of Southern agriculture as Thomas G. Abernethy, Miss., "Took" Gathings, Ark., John McMillan, S.C., Paul Jones, Mo.

The debate was hot and heavy.

"Horace, you're turning your back on your own people," complained Cooley to Godfrey, his fellow North Carolinian, "You're going too far. You set quotas for Negroes' jobs, and there's not supposed to be any quotas in filling jobs. It's unconstitutional."

Cooley referred to the fact that Godfrey had sent a directive to all local Agricultural Stabilization Committees directing that the first vacancy on local committees be filled with Negroes until the percentage of Negroes employed was equal to the percentage of Negro farmers, in each Southern state.

His directive followed a tough report by the Civil Rights Commission pointing out that no Negro served on a state agricultural committee in the South; and that only 75 Negroes served among 37,000 members of community committees.

There was immediate revolt in the deep South against Godfrey's directive.

"If you think you're going to get a farm bill if you stick to that program," Chairman Cooley told his fellow North Carolinian, "you're just crazy."

Most of those present at the inside meeting were old friends of Horace Godfrey. They had known him a long time. But they found him adamant on the point that Negroes must be given a voice on the local committes which regulate Southern agriculture.

—FRIENDSHIP HOUSE—

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson hasn't made headlines riding Arab stallions or yachting in the Mediterranean, but in her own way has made a lot of private headlines in people's hearts.

This week she is giving a lift to an institution which Jane Addams first made famous with her Hull House in Chicago. These "settlement houses," started to help immigrants get adjusted in big American cities, are now usually called "friendship houses."

The friendship house which Mrs. Johnson is visiting in Washington aims at solving the problems of the underprivileged, all the way from finding jobs to getting surplus food to securing legal services. All sorts of people volunteer, from clerks, to housewives, to a truck driver who recently helped a family of five find a bed.

Meeting this truck driver, Rep. Hugh Carey, D-N.Y., commented, "If we had 50,000 like you we'd be all set."

Mrs. Johnson is giving a lift to this particular friendship house as symbolic of what is being done and can be done all over the USA.

Tom Dodd, D-Conn., has resisted pressure to reopen the investigation into President Kennedy's assassination. Right-wing groups have been clamoring for a probe by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to expose the assassination as a "Communist plot." Before the assassination, the same right-wing groups portrayed President Kennedy not as a victim but a conspirator of the Communists. . . Dodd may turn the tables on the right-wing fanatics and investigate them instead. He is interested in outlawing para-military organizations, which arm their members and train them for possible insurrection. Such militant outfits as the Minutemen, Ku Klux Klan, Black Muslims, National States Rights Party, and American Nazi Party would be affected.

Millionaires' New Social Set--The Labor Leaders.

Washington, D. C.:--It's becoming easier for labor leaders to fight the class war. They're being lionized by millionaire political leaders.

For some union chiefs these days, it's breakfast at the Kennedys' and lunch at the Rockefellers'. Nor do only a privileged few speak for the proletariat. They go en masse to the well-laden tables in lovely homes.

Actually it was Gov. Nelson Rockefeller who first opened his home to the labor men--from masons to musicians, from clothing to construction unions. And now New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is determined not to lag behind this open door policy.

Mr. Kennedy, who genially has hosted a terrace party or two for some national labor leaders in the past, now is inviting the lower echelons--en masse.

On the morning of May 5, it will be breakfast for a score or more of New York's construction local union officials on the patio of his McLean, Va., home. The men are in town for the unprecendentedly huge building and construction legislative labor conference and lobbying meeting.

Bob Kennedy wants the home state contingent in for many reasons--not the least is his eagerness to establish a mass labor base in his newly adopted state.

Relationships are not too warm on the labor front. Sen. Kennedy knows he can use some new friends in the union ranks. For some weeks now he has been seeking a full-time labor contact man to bring the fraternity closer.

Some of the labor leaders are intimates of Vice President Hubert Humphrey. They see the new senator as a possible future rival of the effervescent man from Minnesota, who knows virtually all of them by their first names.

And some of the union officials, especially in the building and construction trades, are fond of "Rocky," as they call the energetic governor.

Mr. Rockefeller is an old hand at this socializing. He rarely makes a policy move vital to the labor chiefs without having them into one or another of his homes here or in New York.

As recently as Mar. 25, Mr. Rockefeller invited some 20 nationally prominent New York labor leaders to lunch at his Fifth Ave. apartment in New York. It was an off-the-record gathering and has remained unreported until this moment.

Among the guests were men from such disparate unions as the Teamsters, spoken for by international vice president Johnny O' Rourke; the carpenters, in the person of Charles Johnson; the white collar employes, represented by one of the upcoming new breed of young labor men, Howard Coughlin; and the one-man labor army, Harry Van Arsdale, who plans to add one million new members to union ranks shortly. Mr. Van Arsdale's goal is the four-hour day.

They gathered at noon time in a vast dining room which had been newly furnished--new table, new chairs, new decor. One union chief looked uneasily at the abstract paintings favored by the governor and whispered to the painters' union leader, "Bet you your men could spray canvas that way." And someone whispered, "Hush up, they're Picassos."

The issues between the governor and the labor leaders were sharp--as was the humor. Some of the new chairs, which had not been used until that moment, cracked under the carpenters' Charles Johnson and a clothing union chief, Louis Hollander. The governor grinned at Johnson and observed the carpenters were losing their skill.

But the labor leaders had not lost their touch with the political needle. The governor outlined his sales tax proposal, pointing out that the state would need over $700 million more.

They were not happy with the sales tax and even more grumpy over the governor's statement that, to keep the state competitive, he would veto a bill calling for a $1.50-an-hour statewide minimum wage.

But he made the point during the four-hour give-and-take that his plans for school, mental hospital and road construction would create 120,000 new jobs during the coming five years.

That warmed them over. Furthermore, they had Bob Kennedy's promise to fight for the $1.50-an-hour minimum wage law on the state and national front. And now some of them have the senator's invitation to breakfast on the lawn.

What a way to win a war.

THE PLANNERS' THOUGHTS

It has been said that the liberal segment of American politics may well be responsible some day for the death of the very republic which makes possible the free expression of liberal philosophy. Understandably, the liberals hurl the charge right back. Right or wrong, the thought of the ruination of one's country certainly puts the importance of informed thought and action in proper perspective for all to see.

So, it is incumbent upon all to examine the liberal motivation behind the signing of the test-ban treaty, liberalized trade with Soviet bloc nations, and the goal of an expanded, more powerful United Nations.

That force, or motivation, according to Robert Morris, is found in the title of his new book, Disarmament: Weapon of Conquest. Mr. Morris declares that the aim of the liberal elite, the top level policymakers in the U. S. government, is to form a World Government, backed by an all - powerful peace force. A necessary part of this goal is the destruction of American nationalism -- in fact, of all nationalism in the present era of rising nationalism. Morris thus uncovers an anomaly, and perhaps a self-destroying fault of the disarmament and One World ideas. He points out that the planners realize that these ideas may be anachronistic and have launched on a "Think Factory" public relations program subsidized by the U. S. taxpayer.

Morris, also author of No Wonder We Are Losing, says there is no truth to the charge that the U. S. has no foreign policy. There is one, and it goes by an old familiar title - "The No-Win Policy." This is part and parcel of the step-at-a-time advance toward extinction of nationalism and the establishment of One World Government.

In building his case, Morris says we must remember the "outcroppings" of U. S. policy which Americans have heard about. From time to time, planners have said the United States should not directly oppose the communists. At the time of these outcroppings, the emerging policy was not set forth clearly. Then, Morris says, they dropped two bombs -- the disarmament program and the Rostow Memorandum.

The memorandum was born, nurtured and brought up under the care of Walter Rostow, Chief Policy Planner of the U. S. State Department. The memo embraces the thesis that the Soviet Union is mellowing and that an area of overlapping interests is developing.

Among other things, the memo proposes: expanded contact with Red China, placing it in the same status as Yugoslavia and Poland; that capitalism cannot triumph over communism; gentle treatment of satellite nations, including total abstinence from provocation and criticism; transaction of business with East Germany; and no support for uprisings within satellite nations.

At this point, Morris comments that Americans do not know that this is State Department policy and therefore cannot understand why the U. S. does not help the Cuban exiles, or why tax dollars lavishly bestowed upon dictators such as Tito, Gomulka and Sukarno.

In such a pure air - cleared magically of suspicion and doubt - disarmament is to be more readily accomplished. The U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has already reported out an eight-point program which calls for general and complete disarmament culminating in a U. N. Peace Force. This is what Soviet Premier Khrushchev requested of the United Nations in 1959, and Morris says this is U. S. policy today. In saying that the United States is being put off balance by the Soviets, Morris agrees with Earl Voss, author of the excellent book, NUCLEAR AMBUSH, The Test-Ban Trap. Voss merely put it another way: In the test moratorium of the late 1950's, the Soviet Union tied up the U. S. nuclear testing program with a "clever combination of propaganda. . . and diabolical statesmanship."

Morris underlines what seems to be incredible U. S. "statesmanship" by reminding that while the Soviet Union was moving its expeditionary force across the Atlantic to Cuba, the U. S. was offering the Russians a treaty to implement general and complete disarmament. The word, "incredible," is used in a spirit of charity only: the disarmament proposal assumes that the USSR is a peace-loving nation -- an assumption which the USSR has gone to great lengths and expense to disprove.

As Morris puts it: "The missiles in Cuba, the terror campaigns in Viet Nam and Angola, the shootings at the Berlin Wall, the implacable drive in South America -- all make Walt Rostow sound fantastic."

Disarmament, Morris goes on, is being used as a cover for the creation of an international rule of law, or world goverment, under which all nations would be held in check by an all-powerful international army and an international court of law.

What is wrong with this goal? To Morris, the idea might be a thrilling concept if the United Nations (the framework of the concept) were made up of idealistic men and nations. The fact is, Morris says, the U. S. is not so composed. The idealistic goal of the misty-eyed liberals will be successful only with permanent Soviet good faith. The record "simply does not support the idealistic conclusions of our policy leaders. This, indeed, is a very dangerous game they are playing."

For additional proof, the author cites the U. N. Secretariat, in which hardened Soviet nationals hold highly - important posts. What is "most inconceivable" is that these militant communists could be objective international civil servants. Equally as disturbing is the trend toward unilateral disarmament as seen in the withdrawal and dismantling of important U. S. weapons. Morris offers proof of the trend.

Perhaps the most intriguing section of Morris's book is the revelation about the "Think Factories." He quotes columnist Edith Kermit Roosevelt that these "factories" are financed by the U. S. Government, and that one of them, the Institute for Defense Analysis, has received contracts from the Defense Department and State Department. At times, the IDA has:

Promoted Red China as the "real" threat in order to promote peaceful coexistence with the USSR.

Suggested Quemoy and Matsu be turned over to Red China to enlarge the difference between Red China and the USSR.

Suggested that if the USSR does not disarm, the U. S. should; this with the aim of inducing reciprocation.

Morris is at his most eloquent after quoting Mr. Rostow to the effect that disarmament will make the world safe for ideological differences. Morris' reply: "A rather preposterous notion when dealing with an ideology dedicated to the extinction of diversity."

Morris builds a nostalgic longing for a realistic and American foreign policy. He offers an intimate glimpse at how U. S. planners think, and such a book would be a valuable asset to any bookshelf.

H. L. Hunt Says

BACK TO BUFFALO BILL

Having worked when young as a cowhand, in 1945 I purchased ranches in the Powder River Basin near Miles City, Montana. After hearing fantastic stories of grasshopper plagues, I wanted a grasshopper-proof ranch and bought the Hoodoo ranches near Cody, Wyoming in 1948.

The several ranches, including some once owned by William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), were thrown together by wealthy Englishman W. R. Coe. They lie along the Shoshone and Greybull Rivers and Sage and Pine Creeks.

Hoodoo consisted of deeded land, Taylor grazing-tracts and forest permits totalling over 250,000 acres, with 5,000 acres irrigated land growing alfalfa.

Livestock consisted of 100 horses, 5,000 cows, 900 heifers and 10,000 sheep. The mother-cow herd was the finest Herefords in the country. All were pure bred although registration papers had not been kept.

My representative bought the outfit complete from U. S. Senator E. V. Robertson, including the furniture in the newly constructed headquarters house. Dale Petit, a noted forester, cattleman, ranch manager and once dude wrangler at the Valley Ranch Resort on the Lower Fork of the Shoshone was installed as manager.

Preferring to run a steer herd, we auctioned the famous cow-herd and reduced the investment from $1,900,000 to $1,200,000.

Hoodoo has never been operated as a hobby. Grazing operations netted $396,000 in one year running steers which were always cornfed in commercial feed lots near Omaha. I have had as many as 16,000 head on feed at one time fattening to grade choice.

The Frost Ranch House built of great logs, near what became Hoodoo headquarters, was traditional as a stagecoach inn where western notables lodged, including Owen Wister while finishing his book, The Virginian.

The ranch was not bought for oil production, but now embraces 2 oil fields which expedited the payout. HLH

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — You know how to say "Slide, Kelly, slide" in Spanish?

"Slide, Pedro, slide."

That's how.

It may be stretching the point to use this old baseball phrase as a sample, but the truth is that from Tijuana to Tierre del Fuego the natives are putting lots of English to their Spanish.

The result is a jivey "Spanglish" that has saddened purists. They blame it all on what they call "el snobismo."

The creature of lightning-swift communication of new cultures, ideas and expressions, English-accented Spanish may be more than just a passing fad. It seems to be giving the mother tongue a flexibility to meet the communication needs of Latin America's younger generations.

One day in 1960, while haranguing against American influences in Cuban life, Fidel Castro suddenly — and uncharacteristically — seemed at a loss for the right word to describe the extent of counter-revolutionary activity in the country. He finally blurted out it had become a "hobby."

Because of their proximity to the United States, Cuba and Mexico are believed to have pioneered the injection of simple English expressions into the language.

Television and movies have been major vehicles in recent times.

Today there's hardly an English word that doesn't fit or gets thrown in somewhere in everday Spanish.

Some examples:

Housing — the important question to ask is how big is the "living" room is deleted and does the apartment come with kitchenette spelled "quichenet" in some countries. You may be told it has an ample "hall" and that the rent can be discussed in another "interview,"

Clothing — The young girl looking for a shorty negligee needs only ask for "un baby doll." Bikini is common, as are "shorts" for bathing trunks and "sweater."

Travel — The only way to go is "pro jet," making certain to take "muchos travelers checkes." The resort is certain to have quite a few "whiskerias" and "bar grills."

Why is this happening to Spanish?

In Argentina, at least, says a university professor, French influence is on the decline and English has become the second language. This could be true of the rest of the Americas, he added.

WASHINGTON — There's been a bitter backstage battle in the House Agricultural Committee over the question of putting Negroes on local agricultural stabilization and conservation committees.

The battle affects several hundred thousand Negro sharecroppers in the deep South and could jeopardize subsidy payments to tobacco and cotton farmers. Northern Democrats have been willing to go along with these rich subsidy payments for the sake of party harmony. But the civil rights issue has become so important in the north that this support could easily be withdrawn and if so the farm bill would be defeated.

This is one reason the arguments over Negro participation in the Southern farm program have been held with no northern Congressman present.

To avoid leaks, southern Congressmen met privately with Horace Godfrey, head of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Godfrey is from North Carolina. So is Chairman Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee. Present were representatives L. H. Fountain and Ross Taylor, also of North Carolina, together with such pillars of Southern agriculture as Thomas G. Abernethy, Miss., "Took" Gathings, Ark., John McMillan, S.C., Paul Jones, Mo.

The debate was hot and heavy.

"Horace, you're turning your back on your own people," complained Cooley to Godfrey, his fellow North Carolinian, "You're going too far. You set quotas for Negroes' jobs, and there's not supposed to be any quotas in filling jobs. It's unconstitutional."

Cooley referred to the fact that Godfrey had sent a directive to all local Agricultural Stabilization Committees directing that the first vacancy on local committees be filled with Negroes until the percentage of Negroes employed was equal to the percentage of Negro farmers, in each Southern state.

His directive followed a tough report by the Civil Rights Commission pointing out that no Negro served on a state agricultural committee in the South; and that only 75 Negroes served among 37,000 members of community committees.

There was immediate revolt in the deep South against Godfrey's directive.

"If you think you're going to get a farm bill if you stick to that program," Chairman Cooley told his fellow North Carolinian, "you're just crazy."

Most of those present at the inside meeting were old friends of Horace Godfrey. They had known him a long time. But they found him adamant on the point that Negroes must be given a voice on the local committes which regulate Southern agriculture.

—FRIENDSHIP HOUSE—

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson hasn't made headlines riding Arab stallions or yachting in the Mediterranean, but in her own way has made a lot of private headlines in people's hearts.

This week she is giving a lift to an institution which Jane Addams first made famous with her Hull House in Chicago. These "settlement houses," started to help immigrants get adjusted in big American cities, are now usually called "friendship houses."

The friendship house which Mrs. Johnson is visiting in Washington aims at solving the problems of the underprivileged, all the way from finding jobs to getting surplus food to securing legal services. All sorts of people volunteer, from clerks, to housewives, to a truck driver who recently helped a family of five find a bed.

Meeting this truck driver, Rep. Hugh Carey, D-N.Y., commented, "If we had 50,000 like you we'd be all set."

Mrs. Johnson is giving a lift to this particular friendship house as symbolic of what is being done and can be done all over the USA.

Tom Dodd, D-Conn., has resisted pressure to reopen the investigation into President Kennedy's assassination. Right - wing groups have been clamoring for a probe by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to expose the assassination as a "Communist plot." Before the assassination, the same right-wing groups portrayed President Kennedy not as a victim but a conspirator of the Communists. . . Dodd may turn the tables on the right-wing fanatics and investigate them instead. He is interested in outlawing para-military organizations, which arm their members and train them for possible insurrection. Such militant outfits as the Minutemen, Ku Klux Klan, Black Muslims, National States Rights Party, and American Nazi Party would be affected.

Millionaires' New Social Set--The Labor Leaders.

Washington, D. C.:--It's becoming easier for labor leaders to fight the class war. They're being lionized by millionaire political leaders.

For some union chiefs these days, it's breakfast at the Kennedys' and lunch at the Rockefellers'. Nor do only a privileged few speak for the proletariat. They go en masse to the well-laden tables in lovely homes.

Actually it was Gov. Nelson Rockefeller who first opened his home to the labor men--from masons to musicians, from clothing to construction unions. And now New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is determined not to lag behind this open door policy.

Mr. Kennedy, who genially has hosted a terrace party or two for some national labor leaders in the past, now is inviting the lower echelons--en masse.

On the morning of May 5, it will be breakfast for a score or more of New York's construction local union officials on the patio of his McLean, Va., home. The men are in town for the unprecedentedly huge building and construction legislative labor conference and lobbying meeting.

Bob Kennedy wants the home state contingent in for many reasons--not the least is his eagerness to establish a mass labor base in his newly adopted state.

Relationships are not too warm on the labor front. Sen. Kennedy knows he can use some new friends in the union ranks. For some weeks now he has been seeking a full-time labor contact man to bring the fraternity closer.

Some of the labor leaders are intimates of Vice President Hubert Humphrey. They see the new senator as a possible future rival of the effervescent man from Minnesota, who knows virtually all of them by their first names.

And some of the union officials, especially in the building and construction trades, are fond of "Rocky," as they call the energetic governor.

Mr. Rockefeller is an old hand at this socializing. He rarely makes a policy move vital to the labor chiefs without having them into one or another of his homes here or in New York.

As recently as Mar. 25, Mr. Rockefeller invited some 20 nationally prominent New York labor leaders to lunch at his Fifth Ave. apartment in New York. It was an off-the-record gathering and has remained unreported until this moment.

Among the guests were men from such disparate unions as the Teamsters, spoken for by international vice president Johnny O' Rourke; the carpenters, in the person of Charles Johnson; the white collar employes, represented by one of the upcoming new breed of young labor men, Howard Coughlin; and the one-man labor army, Harry Van Arsdale, who plans to add one million new members to union ranks shortly. Mr. Van Arsdale's goal is the four-hour day.

They gathered at noon time in a vast dining room which had been newly furnished--new table, new chairs, new decor. One union chief looked uneasily at the abstract paintings favored by the governor and whispered to the painters' union leader, "Bet you your men could spray canvas that way." And someone whispered, "Hush up, they're Picassos."

The issues between the governor and the labor leaders were sharp--as was the humor. Some of the new chairs, which had not been used until that moment, cracked under the carpenters' Charles Johnson and a clothing union chief, Louis Hollander. The governor grinned at Johnson and observed the carpenters were losing their skill.

But the labor leaders had not lost their touch with the political needle. The governor outlined his sales tax proposal, pointing out that the state would need over $700 million more.

They were not happy with the sales tax and even more grumpy over the governor's statement that, to keep the state competitive, he would veto a bill calling for a $1.50-an-hour statewide minimum wage.

But he made the point during the four-hour give-and-take that his plans for school, mental hospital and road construction would create 120,000 new jobs during the coming five years.

That warmed them over. Furthermore, they had Bob Kennedy's promise to fight for the $1.50-an-hour minimum wage law on the state and national front. And now some of them have the senator's invitation to breakfast on the lawn.

What a way to win a war.

The Modern Christian

Do You Believe That Christians Are Justified By God Alone?

Yes. It is primary that only God can give God. God alone justifies, and this is being saved. We share in His divine life because of his gift.

There is a paradox here, for man must consent and cooperate freely with the gift of the Spirit. It is God who works in us and makes us holy. Only God saves, and at the same time, God does not save without our free consent. God does not force our free will.

When we become holy, it is not our personal efforts at work, but the real action of the Spirit within us.

In the biblical sense, it is not one who has done great things for God, but for whom God has done great things, whereby one is holy or justified.

It is paramount to stress that the God of Christians is God the Father to whom Jesus Christ leads us in the Spirit. In this way Christians are justified by God alone.

The Modern Christian

Do You Believe That Christians Are Justified By God Alone?

Yes. It is primary that only God can give God. God alone justifies, and this is being saved. We share in His divine life because of his gift.

There is a paradox here, for man must consent and cooperate freely with the gift of the Spirit. It is God who works in us and makes us holy. Only God saves, and at the same time, God does not save without our free consent. God does not force our free will.

When we become holy, it is not our personal efforts at work, but the real action of the Spirit within us.

In the biblical sense, it is not one who has done great things for God, but for whom God has done great things, whereby one is holy or justified.

It is paramount to stress that the God of Christians is God the Father to whom Jesus Christ leads us in the Spirit. In this way Christians are justified by God alone.

Palmer Takes Lead In Tournament Of Champions, Nicklaus 8 Strokes Back

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer led the way into the second round of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions today, and to the dismay of his admirers, two-time winner Jack Nicklaus was eight long strokes back.

But as a well-known sage from West Virginia — golfer name of Sam Snead — predicted:

"When the curtain comes down, Nicklaus will be there—with his hand out."

The 52-year-old Snead, sitting in the press tent, reflected a moment, looked out at what he calls "those flippity-wristed kids" on the practice tee, and continued:

"Maybe Nicklaus had a bad night the night before, maybe the colic. He putts too good and hits too good. He'll be around at the finish."

Colic or whatever, Nicklaus had a first-round 74 and got only one birdie, and that belatedly at the 15th hole.

And Palmer, meanwhile, escaped the putting miseries that have baffled him for a year and shot a six-under-par 66.

Sunny weather — it was a high 90 Thursday — was promised as the field of 26 resumed play over the 7,029-yard, par 36-36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course.

Two strokes back of Palmer were Snead, who had only one disastrous hole; Bill Casper Jr., and young Dick Sikes.

Bruce Crampton, Chuck Courtney, George Knudson, Rod Funseth and Doug Sanders were tied at 69, and Bob Charles, Paul Harney and Chi Chi Rodriguez were deadlocked at 70.

Nicklaus, the 5-2 betting favorite to win the event for the third straight time, beat only one golfer in the initial round. Pete Brown of Los Angeles had a 78, along with a muscle spasm in the back that might put him out of action.

"That's the best I've putted in a year," said Palmer, who hasn't won a tournament in a year. He needed only 26 putts for the round.

Mizzou Shot Putter Leads Big Eight

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Midwest relay circuit is finished and the 37th Big Eight outdoor meet is two weeks away, but the league's gifted track athletes already have put 10 of the 17 meet records in jeopardy.

Individual times and marks are certain to be bettered even more down the stretch as the league coaches hone their squads and take aim at the Kansas, defending outdoor champion.

Of the 10 league meet marks already in jeopardy, seven have been equalled or surpassed this season, three others were surpassed last year by a trio of seniors.

Take it from Nebraska coach Frank Sevigne, the track for the Big Eight meet May 14-15 at Lincoln, Neb., should be "fast as the dickens." A new top of volcanic rock from New Mexico and clay from Lincoln was put down over a network of subsurface drainage.

The job cost $10,500 and restored the track to its ranking among the nation's best.

Six new season bests were established by Big Eight athletes at the Drake Relays last weekend. Two were the best in league history—the 16:40.6 by Kansas in the four-mile relay and Oklahoma's 3:17.8 sprint medley. Several marks could be lowered Saturday, with all eight teams involved in dual meets. Southern Illinois is at Kansas, Nebraska at Colorado, Kansas State at Missouri, Oklahoma State at Oklahoma and Iowa State at Air Force.

Other season bests by the league at Drake were 9.4 in the 100 by Charlie Greene, Nebraska; 13.9 high hurdles by Darryl Green, Iowa State; 57-6½ shot put by Missouri's Gene Crews; and 48-7¼ triple jump by Glenn Martin, Kansas.

The meet mark of 9.4 might go on the fast Husker track. Greene and OSU's Mickey Miller both have run 9.4 with slight tailwinds, but Greene did it on a wet track. Iowa State's Green will battle the meet record holder. Jim Miller of Colorado, and the record of 14 flat might go.

Martin's triple jump is a foot beyond the league record. Bill Floerke of K-State, with the league's season best of 266-5½, is almost 10 feet beyond the meet mark. Nebraska, OSU and K-State all have run under the mile relay mark of 3:10.5, led by Nebraska's 3:09.3. The Huskers twice have equalled the meet 440 relay mark of 40.5.

Russ Laverty of OSU is co-holder of the meet high jump mark of 6-8½ but the favorite will be Missouri sophomore Steve Herndon, who has gone 6-9¼ outdoors and 6-10¼ indoors.

Miller is the American record holder in the 330 hurdles at 36.2 and could beat his own meet mark of 36.4. Missouri's Robin Lingle several times has run under the meet mile mark of 4:04.9. Herald Hadley of Kansas, NCAA indoor two-mile champ, has a career best in the three-mile well under the meet record.

Junior High Track Meet Saturday

On Saturday, May 1, the Middle School is holding the first Sikeston Junior High Invitational Track meet. Nine schools will participate in this meet including Sikeston, Malden, Charleston, Perryville, Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff, Jackson, and Kennett. Each school will enter a ninth grade team and a seventh and eighth grade team. Trophies and ribbons will be given to the winning teams and individuals. This is the first home meet the Middle School has had, and we encourage the attendance of all Sikeston and surrounding area residents who are interested. The field events and morning preliminaries will begin at 9:00 a.m.; the finals will begin at 1:15 p.m.

Cards Lose Game and Money In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE AP--It probably cost the St. Louis Cardinals a pretty good chunk of money to visit Milwaukee for their three-game baseball series with the Braves.

Despite 67-degree weather at game time, only 2,182 fans turned out at County Stadium for the series finale Thursday night. That brought the three-game attendance to 5,183.

The Cardinals received the regular visiting-club share of 27 1/2 cents on each dollar. On that basis, the club pocketed less than $2,000. Hotel, meals and travel expenses far exceeded that.

Braves Down Cards

Cards-A's

The St. Louis Cardinals, last year's world champions, marked time in last place as the Milwaukee Braves beat them Thursday night, 4-1, at Milwaukee.

St. Louis, with a 4-8 record, has now been in the cellar 10 straight days.

Dick Groat got three of the Cardinals' four hits as Braves pitchers Bob Sadowski and reliever Billy O'Dell took complete charge.

St. Louis' only run came in the fourth inning when Curt Flood led off with a triple and scored on a ground-out by Ed Spiezio.

The Cardinals return to what they hope will be friendlier ground tonight at St. Louis. Ray Sadecki (0-2) will start for St. Louis against Pittsburgh. The Pirates will pitch Vernon Law (0-2) against the Redbirds.

Kansas City didn't play Thursday and takes on the Los Angeles Angels in a night game at Kansas City. John O'Donoghue (1-1) will pitch for the Athletics against the Angels' Marcelino Lopez (1-2).

Sikeston Blasts Notre Dame 7 to 2 For 8th Win

Sikeston's Baseball Bulldogs won their seventh game of the year yesterday against one defeat. Sikeston jumped on the Notre Dame Bulldogs and handed them a 7 to 2 defeat at Cape Girardeau.

Stallings went all the way on the hill for the Bulldogs. He pitched seven innings, allowing two runs while walking one and striking out six. The Notre Dame team managed seven hits for the game.

Capshaw, Notre Dame third baseman and lead off hitter, tagged Stallings for a home run in the sixth inning. Wulfers, the shortstop, pounded out two singles for the losers.

Terry James was the big man in the Sikeston lineup again today. The blonde centerfielder, hit a pitch to right-center field in the third inning for a home run. Couch had double scored ahead of James.

Chuck Heath, Jim Gooch, and Terry James all had two hits for the winners. Wayne Limbaugh and Jim Gooch also hit doubles for Sikeston.

Sikeston is slated to meet Jackson Wednesday at V. F. W. Park.

Mizzou Shot Putter Leads Big Eight

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Midwest relay circuit is finished and the 37th Big Eight outdoor meet is two weeks away, but the league's gifted track athletes already have put 10 of the 17 meet records in jeopardy.

Individual times and marks are certain to be bettered even more down the stretch as the league coaches hone their squads and take aim at the Kansas, defending outdoor champion.

Of the 10 league meet marks already in jeopardy, seven have been equalled or surpassed this season, three others were surpassed last year by a trio of seniors.

Take it from Nebraska coach Frank Sevigne, the track for the Big Eight meet May 14-15 at Lincoln, Neb., should be "fast as the dickens." A new top of volcanic rock from New Mexico and clay from Lincoln was put down over a network of subsurface drainage.

The job cost $10,500 and restored the track to its ranking among the nation's best.

Six new season bests were established by Big Eight athletes at the Drake Relays last weekend. Two were the best in league history—the 16:40.6 by Kansas in the four-mile relay and Oklahoma's 3:17.8 sprint medley. Several marks could be lowered Saturday, with all eight teams involved in dual meets. Southern Illinois is at Kansas, Nebraska at Colorado, Kansas State at Missouri, Oklahoma State at Oklahoma and Iowa State at Air Force.

Other season bests by the league at Drake were 9.4 in the 100 by Charlie Greene, Nebraska; 13.9 high hurdles by Darryl Green, Iowa State; 57-6½ shot put by Missouri's Gene Crews; and 48-7¼ triple jump by Glenn Martin, Kansas.

The meet mark of 9.4 might go on the fast Husker track. Greene and OSU's Mickey Miller both have run 9.4 with slight tailwinds, but Greene did it on a wet track. Iowa State's Green will battle the meet record holder. Jim Miller of Colorado, and the record of 14 flat might go.

Martin's triple jump is a foot beyond the league record. Bill Floerke of K-State, with the league's season best of 266-5½, is almost 10 feet beyond the meet mark. Nebraska, OSU and K-State all have run under the mile relay mark of 3:10.5, led by Nebraska's 3:09.3. The Huskers twice have equalled the meet 440 relay mark of 40.5.

Russ Laverty of OSU is co-holder of the meet high jump mark of 6-8½ but the favorite will be Missouri sophomore Steve Herndon, who has gone 6-9¼ outdoors and 6-10¼ indoors.

Miller is the American record holder in the 330 hurdles at 36.2 and could beat his own meet mark of 36.4. Missouri's Robin Lingle several times has run under the meet mile mark of 4:04.9. Herald Hadley of Kansas, NCAA indoor two-mile champ, has a career best in the three-mile well under the meet record.

Palmer Takes Lead In Tournament Of Champions, Nicklaus 8 Strokes Back

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer led the way into the second round of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions today, and to the dismay of his admirers, two-time winner Jack Nicklaus was eight long strokes back.

But as a well-known sage from West Virginia — golfer name of Sam Snead — predicted:

"When the curtain comes down, Nicklaus will be there—with his hand out."

The 52-year-old Snead, sitting in the press tent, reflected a moment, looked out at what he calls "those flippity-wristed kids" on the practice tee, and continued:

"Maybe Nicklaus had a bad night the night before, maybe the colic. He putts too good and hits too good. He'll be around at the finish."

Colic or whatever, Nicklaus had a first-round 74 and got only one birdie, and that belatedly at the 15th hole.

And Palmer, meanwhile, escaped the putting miseries that have baffled him for a year and shot a six-under-par 66.

Sunny weather — it was a high 90 Thursday — was promised as the field of 26 resumed play over the 7,029-yard, par 36-36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course.

Two strokes back of Palmer were Snead, who had only one disastrous hole; Bill Casper Jr., and young Dick Sikes.

Bruce Crampton, Chuck Courtney, George Knudson, Rod Funseth and Doug Sanders were tied at 69, and Bob Charles, Paul Harney and Chi Chi Rodriguez were deadlocked at 70.

Nicklaus, the 5-2 betting favorite to win the event for the third straight time, beat only one golfer in the initial round. Pete Brown of Los Angeles had a 78, along with a muscle spasm in the back that might put him out of action.

"That's the best I've putted in a year," said Palmer, who hasn't won a tournament in a year. He needed only 26 putts for the round.

Cards Lose Game and Money In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE AP--It probably cost the St. Louis Cardinals a pretty good chunk of money to visit Milwaukee for their three-game baseball series with the Braves.

Despite 67-degree weather at game time, only 2,182 fans turned out at County Stadium for the series finale Thursday night. That brought the three-game attendance to 5,183.

The Cardinals received the regular visiting-club share of 27 1/2 cents on each dollar. On that basis, the club pocketed less than $2,000. Hotel, meals and travel expenses far exceeded that.

We're having our greatest sales year—thanks, in part, to a lot of former Ford and Chevy owners. Here's one reason they bought: nearly half our '65 models are actually priced just a few dollars a month more than the most popular smaller cars, comparably equipped. And that small difference includes power steering, power brakes, automatic transmission, radio, heater and V-8 engine. Say you're driving a Ford now? How'd you like to drive a Chrysler tomorrow? See us today and make the move up. It's never been easier.

Present Conditions Along Banks Of Mississippi

THIS IS THE PRESENT SCENE at Commerce where the Mississippi River is bulging at the seams, trying hard to enter the residential area. Back in 1937, it did make its' entry into the town.

The swollen Mississippi River hamered at western Illinois, eastern Iowa and northeastern Missouri today as reinforced dikes held back the surging waters.

The river held at 24 feet in Quincy in west-central Illinois.

At Fulton, Ill., Gov. Otto Kerner called out 30 more National Guardsmen to help the 3,400 residents in the town surrounded by water.

The Red Cross reported that a dike patrolman fell through a three-foot breach in a levee along flooding Eliza Creek near Aledo, northeast of Keithsburg, but was quickly rescued. His identity was unavailable.

Workers quickly clogged the crack with 1,500 sandbags. Some 25,000 acres of farmland and 100 homes would have been flooded if the dike broke, the Red Cross said.

The Red Cross estimates that the Mississippi flooding has made more than 38,000 persons homeless. Red Cross workers are feeding 11,650 flood volunteers and housing 1,375 evacuees in 19 shelters along the Mississippi.

Most of Quincy's 45,000 residents live on a high bluff overlooking the river. But the dike protecting an industrial complex along the roaring Mississippi burst Wednesday night.

Later, three secondary levees also gave way, one developing a 300-foot gash. But most of the 5,500-acre area remained undamaged behind sandbags.

Quincy has become a railroad center because of the floods. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad; the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, and other carriers rerouted their main lines through the city because Quincy is one of the few points where they can cross the river.

The river hit a 24.81-foot crest at Muscatine, Iowa, and immediately began to drop.

Four Thousand Men Try To Hold Levees

A total of 4,300 men were engaged in an attempt to hold the set-back levee from New Madrid north and on the Drinkwater levee near Birds Point, which protects Charleston and the territory back of the floodway.

Charles L. Blanton Jr., WPA District Director, in charge of the men engaged in levee work, expressed the opinion that the levee would hold. Of the 4,300 men, 1,500 were on the north part and 1,300 on the Drinkwater or river levee.

At this point, the floodway was about 80 percent filled. However, all of the floodway had water in it, but it was deepest in the lower end.

As this spillway filled, it became an inland sea, with its surface dotted with trees, ice floes, buildings all dumped into one scene of gloom. The current was violent, sweeping everything in its path.

They didn't know at this time if the newly formed floodway would hold or not. If it didn't, they knew that a catastrophe of unprecedented horror would occur, with New Madrid and Mississippi Counties sure to be covered with rampaging water. And too, great concern was given to Dunklin and Pemiscot counties, both of which were already flooded by the St. Francis River.

The previous Monday Morning, the old Mississippi River levee on the Missouri side and south of Birds Point, had two places dynamited to relieve the pressuring current and crest that was coming relentlessly.

Business Men Prepare At New Madrid

At New Madrid, the business firms in the City started preparing for the high waters. The New Madrid weekly paper, "New Madrid Weekly Record," owned at that time by Albert O. Allen, was published on the January 25, Monday, because high water was expected to hit the area before Friday, the regular publishing date for the paper.

As soon as the four-page publication was printed, workmen began scaffolding what machinery could be raised.

It was planned that if the water was too high in New Madrid, the paper would be printed in Sikeston the following week.

All of the stores began to assemble their stock, placing all except the bare necessities eight feet above the floor. Some of the firms hired trucks and shipped much of their merchandise to higher ground.

Red Cross Aid Great Help

The Red Cross aided 748,229 persons of the total 1,205,256. The persons were either in refugee camps, their homes, or in neighbors' homes while being given assistance by the Red Cross.

The Red Cross operated 838 camps and 270 field hospitals. Persons sick in the hospitals numbered 4,288 and the nurses on duty numbered 1,506.

The high water affected families in 177 counties in 11 states. The Red Cross moved refugees into 114 additional counties which were not flooded by the rising rivers, and housed them there temporarily, until their own homes could be made habitable again.

A total of $22,000 was spent on refugee care by the Red Cross here in Sikeston.

Rescue Operations Divided Into Two General Phases

Rescue work in Mississippi County and New Madrid County was generally divided into two phases as follows:

FIRST PHASE: the warning evacuation of the Floodway Area and the backwater area east of the Set-back Levee when a break in the front line levee was predicted and the high state of the river would increase the backwater south of, and west of East Prairie.

SECOND PHASE: During the time water was running through the Floodway and an unprecedented rise in the backwater area. During the first phase the roads and highways were covered with snow and ice, and it was necessary to break the ice of the waters surface of the backwater area.

The first phase began on Friday January 22nd, when Division No. 10 of the Missouri State Highway Department went into action under the direction of E. J. Noonan, Division Engineer, with Headquarters at Sikeston. Snow plows, trucks, rigging of all kinds, and every man were made available, and moved into the critical area including executive, administrative heads, who transferred their efforts to the floodway.

The early participation of the Highway Department was based on a comprehensive plan of action set forth by Mr. L. T. Berthe, sector Commander, Highwater Maintenance, with General Hadquarters at Charleston. The plan was a co-operative program with the State Highway Commission, and was made as early as April, 1936. On January 21, 1937 Mr. Berthe, in a letter to the Area Engineer at Cairo, reviewed the plan. While the plan was entended to fit into a situation which might develop in levee District No. 2 (Scott County). The office of the Division Highway Engineer at Sikeston alerted its' force and began preparation to function under the plan where a critical situation might develop.

Working under the most difficult conditions of weather and with limited means, 2300 persons were taken out of the backwater area during the first and second phase of the evacuation.

When the water entered the floodway the U. S. Engineers sent in boats and rescue parties thus relieving the Highway forces who then moved into the backwater area.

The chronological development of the ...ue program resulted in a combination of effort and unity or purpose in the common cause to prevent suffering and death, which in order to do justice to all, would require research and investigation, with facilities not immediately available.

There were many agencies and individuals who volunteered and individuals who voluntered and joined the organized forces and there was a corresponding amount of personal sacrifice and heroic service to the marooned and distressed. The men and women in the communities adjoining the Floodway and Backwater rendered untiring and unselfish service throughout.

Of the 110th Observation Squadron, Missouri National Guard, and the Advance Command Post of Brigadier General Lewis M. Means, Adjutant General of the State: official and volunteer boat stations; State Highway Patrol Stations; State Highway Engineer Rescue facilities; the State Game Warden; the Red Cross; CCC Company 3729; and CCC Company 3741. Headquarters Missouri Flood District was located in the State Highway building at Sikeston adjoining the Advance Command Post of the Adjutant General and in close contact with the situation.

In addition to the activities of the planes as indicated in the notes approximately 250 warning messages were dropped in the standard Army dropping tube with a yellow streamer and another 200 warnings were dropped by a improvised method; using a 5-pound paper bag with a rock in it and a streamer attached. These were dropped on isolated homes.

Medicine And Clothing Sent In For Refugees

Medical aid, food and clothing for flood refugees were sent to this section from St. Louis Medical Director, Avery P. Rowlett, four internes and five nurses were in Charleston, where many refugees were suffering from exposure. Typhoid fever was also a threatening menace.

Women workers, employed day and night, were working in shifts, making blankets. Thousands of blankets and over 60,000 articles of wearing apparel and bedding was already in use.

Senath and Cardwell areas had been completely evacuated at this time.

Fair weather had prevailed since the first of the week, giving people some assurance of recovering from the devastating damage they and their property had suffered.

Soldiers, from the regular Army, had been sent to Sikeston from Des Moines, Iowa. They were sent to aid the Red Cross workers in operating flood relief kitchens.

Sikeston was promised regulation army housing units, but because of a shortage of tents, only the kitchen units could be sent. The crisis that had developed in the St. Francis river valley and the need for tenting there depleted the supply that was on hand.

Three Thousand Housed In Sikeston

Sikeston began to "dig in" with 3,000 people living in refugee camps set up at 12 different locations. They expected hundreds of more people to come if the levees protecting Mississippi and New Madrid counties gave in to the raging, slaming Mississippi River.

The temporary camps were located at: South Grade school building, (858 refugees), Baptist Church, (164 refugees), Nazarene Church, (169 refugees), Christian Church, (112 refugees), Odd Fellows building, (188 refugees), and the Methodist Church, which was a hospital set up to care for the retreating fear-struck refugees, had 52 people in it.

At this point, the Sikeston high school was pressed into service, when additional people, for whom there was no room in any of the other camps, came in to town for shelter and food.

An attempt was being made in the various camps to provide each family with as much privacy as possible. In the churches, Sunday school classrooms provided partitions that were convenient in that respect.

Straw was used for bedding, with blankets, quilts and clothing being donated by residents of Sikeston for the warmth of the refugees.

Missouri Gov. Stark arrived in Sikeston by plane on the morning of Jan. 28 at 10:30 a.m. After inspecting the flood emergency relief headquarters here he began a tour of the ...th ...ict in Southeast Missouri by plane and automobile. He returned to Jefferson City that ...

The families were all kept together as much as was possible. Records were kept, giving their names, ages, address, present location, flood losses and what was saved, and other information helpful in cataloguing the refugees.

The schools had been closed since Tuesday, January 26, 1937. At this point, they gave up having classes indefinitely, not knowing what to expect from the flooding conditions in the area.

Airplanes To Aid Hay Fever Victims

NEW YORK AP -- With the aid of an airplane, a physician says he's found clues to help victims of hay fever and asthma.

The clues involve the way warm air currents and cool air carry around the pollen grains and mold spores triggering these ailments.

Atomic fallout is apparently moved about in much the same way, so "we are not helpless in our control of fallout" or of pollen, Dr. Herman A. Heise of Milwaukee, Wis., said today.

"We can avoid much of it by staying in the warmer city rather than in the cooler country. Smoke screens and the resulting clouds prevent radiation of heat, thus minimizing fallout," he told the Aerospace Medical Association.

"Our findings indicate we can prophesy pollen counts as accurately as we can prophesy the weather," he said. "Yesterday's pollen counts may be interesting, but tomorrow's estimate has practical value" for victims of hay fever.

Heise and associates, in a private plane, trapped and counted pollen grains and mold spores at heights up to 20,000 feet.

A simple mechanism seems chiefly responsible for the rising and falling of these solid particles, he said.

"When the earth is heated by the sun, the lighter warmer air at the surface balloons upward through the cooler air, causing instability, and the upward currents carry the tiny solid particles into the clouds and haze layer," Heise said.

"At night with clear skies, conditions are reversed. The earth cools by radiation, so that the air above now is warmer than the air near the ground. Upward currents cease, and the now-stable air allows the particles to settle. The haze layer actually drifts earthward, carrying the particles with it."

Rundown On State Employment, 1964

CENSUS BUREAU REPORTS ON STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT IN MISSOURI.

In the latest count of the Census Bureau in October 1964, Missouri had 161,700 State and local government employees, reports A. L. Rascher, Jr., director of the St. Louis field office of the U. S. Department of Commerce. Local governments accounted for 120,900 while the State employed 40,800.

The State of Missouri employed 76 persons per 10,000 population. This compares with national average of 860 for state governments. Local governments in Missouri employed 235 persons per 10,000 population compared with the national average of 258 for all local governments.

Payrolls for State and local government employees in Missouri amounted to $56,199,000 in October 1964. Local government employees were paid $42,496,000 and State employees received $13,704,000. The average earnings of these employees was $412.

On a full-time equivalent basis, Missouri had 137,400 State and local government workers. Education accounted for 67,500 of these employees, and other functions required 69,900 employees. These other functions included highways with 10,600 employees; hospitals and health, 17,500; and public welfare, 2,800 workers.

This information is reported in the new Census Bureau publication, 1964 State Distribution of Public Employment, available at 25 cents from the Commerce Department's St. Louis office, 1520 Market Street.

It Was Sneaky, But Expensive

KANSAS CITY AP -- Mrs. Barbara Coffman, a teller at the Suburban National Bank, said she was so excited she couldn't find the switch to turn on the automatic camera which is supposed to take pictures of bank robbers.

A lone operator with a bad left eye got about $6,000 from Mrs. Coffman in a quiet stickup at the bank Wednesday.

Mrs. Coffman described the encounter:

"He came up to the booth, threw a paper sack on the counter, and said: 'Keep smiling lady, and keep filing that up with the green stuff'."

Mrs. Coffman said he told her he had a gun, but she didn't see it and supposed it was under his shirt.

About 15 other employes were unaware of the robbery until the man left by the front door and disappeared.

MISSOURI PERSONAL INCOME INCREASES $541,000,000 IN 1964; PER CAPITA INCOME GROWS TO $2,595

Total personal income in Missouri in 1964 amounted to $11,441,000,000 compared with $10,900,000,000 in 1963, reports A. L. Rascher, Jr., director of the St. Louis field office of the U. S. Department of Commerce. This was an increase of $541,000,000 or 5 percent over 1963.

Rascher adds that Missouri's per capita income in 1964 increased 4 percent, from $2,486 in 1963 to $2,595. This was 2 percent greater than the national average of $2,550, which also increased 4 percent during the year. Per capita income is the average income for each man, woman and child.

Total personal income in the United States in 1964 was $487,881,000,000, an increase of 6 percent over the 1963 figure of $461,610,000,000.

In Illinois, total personal income increased 5 percent from $80,020,000,000 in 1963 to $81,495,000,000 in 1964. Per capita income increased 4 percent in 1964, from $2,892 to $3,003.

Per capita income in 1964 in other nearby states was $1,633 in Arkansas, $1,811 in Kentucky, $2,229 in Indiana, $2,311 in Kansas, and $2,370 in Iowa.

These data have just been released by the Office of Business Economics, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Propose To Exempt Non Profit Hospitals

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A proposal to excempt non-profit hospitals from taxation was advanced by the Senate today. The vote was 15-5.

Sen. Jack Curtis, R-Springfield, explained the constitutional change was made necessary by a Supreme Court decision which ended the tax exemption privileges such hospitals had enjoyed for years.

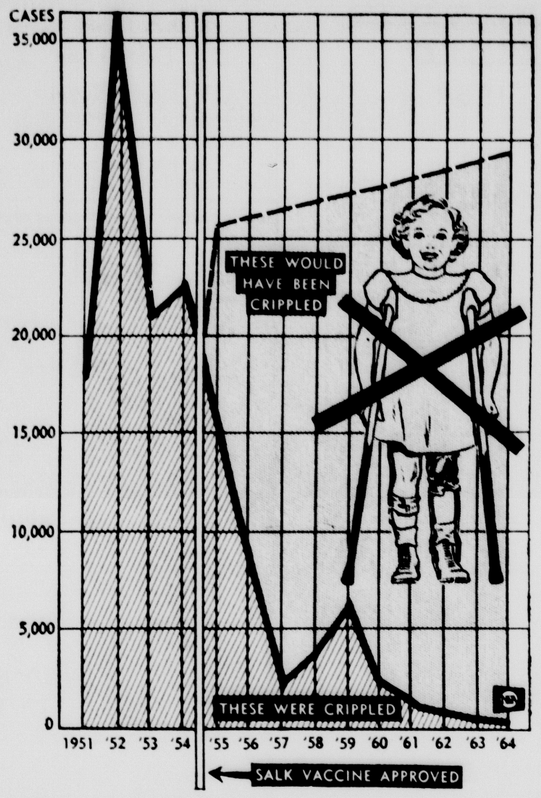
As a result of the decision, he said the Frisco Railway Employes' hospital in St. Louis is being taxed $6,000 a year by the city of St. Louis, the Missouri Pacific employes hospital $14,000 and the health center of Meat Cutters' Local $8,000.

Opponents charged the exemption would merely amount to subsidizing the hospitals at the expense of the taxpayers.

Before advancing the proposal to position for passage, the Senate beat down an amendment that would have exempted household goods and furniture.

Curtis opposed that as a killing amendment. He said household goods in Missouri have an assessed valuation of $171 million and to tack on such an exemption would draw the wrath of schools and local governments.

House members have decided they want their full two years' pay whether they're still in office or not.



DECADE OF DEDICATION—Only 10 years ago (April 12, 1955) the Salk vaccine was declared "safe, effective and potent." In the following decade the number of cases of polio in the U.S. has dropped more than 99 per cent. As a result, last year only 121 cases were reported, a rate of less than one per million in population. The impressive figures make this the most successful story in the history of preventive medicine. Information from National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Catholics In Diocese Keep Abreast Of Population Growth In Nation

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. —Catholics in the Diocese of Springfield - Cape Girardeau increased from 35,780 to 35,953 and increase of 173 during the past year. Across the nation the total number of Catholics, according to the 1965 Official Catholic Directory, stands at 45,640,619, an increase of 766,248 since 1964.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION

In the ten year period since the first State Reorganization Commission Report much of the data with respect to the state of Missouri as an employer remained substantially unchanged except for numbers of persons involved. In 1954 the state was the largest single employer with 22,000 full and part-time employees. As of June 30, 1963, the state of Missouri continued to be the largest single employer in the state with a total of 35,000 full and part-time employees. The number of full-time employees in 1963 was 28,000, an increase of 10,600 or about 60 per cent over the number of full-time employees in 1954. The number of part-time employees in 1963 was approximately 7,000, an increase of 2,400 over the number of part-time employees in 1954 or an increase of approximately 52 per cent. The state's annual payroll totaled approximately $48,000,000.00 in 1954 while the annual payroll in 1963 was approximately $150,600,000.00 or an increase of more than 312%

There have been no basic changes in the Constitution of 1945 which provides that certain employees be selected on the basis of merit. All of the departments which were under the merit system in 1955 are still under the merit system. In addition, three agencies have been added to the merit system by legislative and administrative action: the Water Pollution Board which was created in 1957 in the Division of Health is under the merit system; by executive order effective March 1, 1961, the Civil Defense Agency was placed in the Merit system; by executive order effective May 6, 1964, the state Office of Emergency Planning was placed within the merit system. It should be pointed out that the number of additional employees covered by the merit system is relatively small (under 50). The total number of individuals covered currently by the merit system is approximately 11,200. The number of employees covered by the merit system in 1954 was approximately 7,200.

Agencies which have their own personnel systems of a more or less formal nature continue to be the State Highway Department, the Department of Conservation, the Highway Patrol, the Division of Public Schools in the Department of Education, and the state institutions of higher education. The number of individuals covered by the Highway Department merit system is approximately 6,000. There are about 500 persons covered by the Conservation system, and approximately 875 covered by the Highway Patrol system.

The remaining employees in positions in the executive departments and agencies, other than those which have been mentioned, normally are employed outside the channels of examination and merit appointment. In some of these "informal" personnel systems the General Assembly has attempted to provide for bipartisan appointments. This is true with respect to the employees of the Division of Industrial Inspection, and with respect to bank examiners in the Division of Finance, for example.

The functions of the Personnel Division remain substantially unchanged from 1955. They are: recruitment, examination, preparation and maintenance of a position classification plan, preparation and maintenance of a pay plan, preaudit of merit system payrolls, certification of eligibles for vacant positions, establishment and supervision of a system of service ratings and reports, development of in - service training programs, establishment of sick leave and vacation policies, working conditions, retirement, hospitalization, credit union, and other fringe benefits for merit system employees.

Missouri Income Increases In 1964

MISSOURI PERSONAL INCOME INCREASES $541,000,000 IN 1964; PER CAPITA INCOME GROWS TO $2,595

Total personal income in Missouri in 1964 amounted to $11,441,000,000 compared with $10,900,000,000 in 1963, reports A. L. Rascher, Jr., director of the St. Louis field office of the U. S. Department of Commerce. This was an increase of $541,000,000 or 5 percent over 1963.

Rascher adds that Missouri's per capita income in 1964 increased 4 percent, from $2,486 in 1963 to $2,595. This was 2 percent greater than the national average of $2,550, which also increased 4 percent during the year. Per capita income is the average income for each man, woman and child.

Total personal income in the United States in 1964 was $487,881,000,000, an increase of 6 percent over the 1963 figure of $461,610,000,000.

In Illinois, total personal income increased 5 percent from $80,020,000,000 in 1963 to $81,495,000,000 in 1964. Per capita income increased 4 percent in 1964, from $2,892 to $3,003.

Per capita income in 1964 in other nearby states was $1,633 in Arkansas, $1,811 in Kentucky, $2,229 in Indiana, $2,311 in Kansas, and $2,370 in Iowa.

These data have just been released by the Office of Business Economics, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Propose To Exempt Non Profit Hospitals

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A proposal to excempt non-profit hospitals from taxation was advanced by the Senate today. The vote was 15-5.

Sen. Jack Curtis, R-Springfield, explained the constitutional change was made necessary by a Supreme Court decision which ended the tax exemption privileges such hospitals had enjoyed for years.

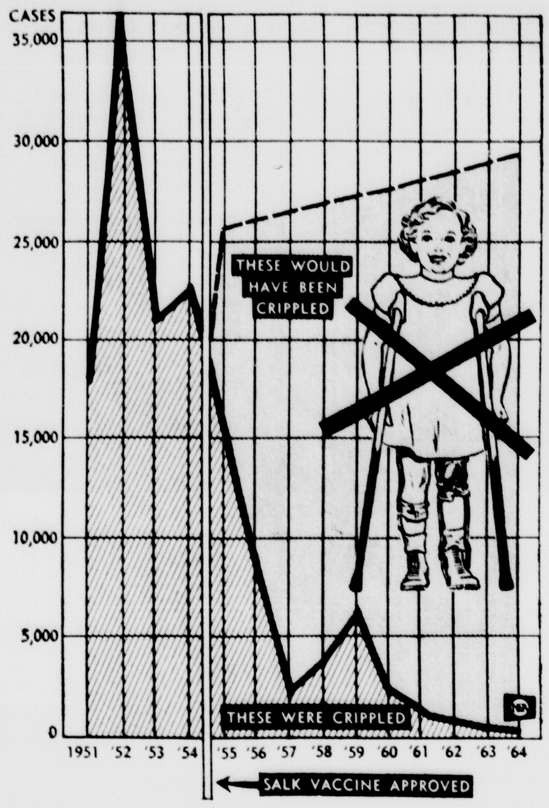
As a result of the decision, he said the Frisco Railway Employes' hospital in St. Louis is being taxed $6,000 a year by the city of St. Louis, the Missouri Pacific employes hospital $14,000 and the health center of Meat Cutters' Local $8,000.

Opponents charged the exemption would merely amount to subsidizing the hospitals at the expense of the taxpayers.

Before advancing the proposal to position for passage, the Senate beat down an amendment that would have exempted household goods and furniture.

Curtis opposed that as a killing amendment. He said household goods in Missouri have an assessed valuation of $171 million and to tack on such an exemption would draw the wrath of schools and local governments.

House members have decided they want their full two years' pay whether they're still in office or not.



DECADE OF DEDICATION—Only 10 years ago (April 12, 1955) the Salk vaccine was declared "safe, effective and potent." In the following decade the number of cases of polio in the U.S. has dropped more than 99 per cent. As a result, last year only 121 cases were reported, a rate of less than one per million in population. The impressive figures make this the most successful story in the history of preventive medicine. Information from National Foundation-March of Dimes.

BULLDOG BARKER

Committees Plan Event

Juniors Give AnnualDance For Seniors

Annual junior-senior prom of Sikeston high school is scheduled for tomorrow evening from 8-11 o'clock in the cafetorium. Junior home rooms are sponsoring this social event.

Finances for the dance were earned primarily through a bake sale sponsored by the junior class.

Juniors also earned money by working in the concession stand at the Bulldog house during football season. Mrs. Catherine Matthews and Mrs. Mildred Robinson's home rooms were in charge of the finance.

Music and invitations are provided by Dolan Rogers' home room. Juniors have contacted the "Rock Kings," a group of college students living in Cape Girardeau, to furnish the entertainment for the event.

Mrs. Hemba Young and Bernard Kincy's students are in charge of the decorations for the evening. As is customary, the theme of the dance is a secret.

All the information concerning it is that two or three statues will constitute a portion of the decorations and the theme concerns a foreign country.

Refreshments are provided by Mrs. Thomas Wilkins' home room and W. W. Wilkison's students will clean up after the dance.

Emily Twitty, Malcolm Lee Attend Meet

Seniors Emily Twitty and Malcolm Lee are representing Sikeston in the speech contest in Columbia today.

Emily will compete in the dramatic reading division, and she will perform a section of the play "J.B." Malcolm will enter radio announcing, and his performance will be of impromptu material.

Both students received excellent ratings in the district contest in Cape Girardeau recently. This made them eligible to compete at state.

Robert Walker, speech instructor and sponsor of the National Forensic League, has aided these students in preparing for the meet.

Missouri State Speech Contest is held on the campus of the University of Missouri. Judges are selected from professors of Stephens and the University of Missouri.

Science Award To Sidney Stauffer

Sidney Stauffer, Sikeston sophomore, is the recipient of a National Science Foundation summer school scholarship. This is a secondary science training program to be held at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau this summer.

Sidney was nominated for this award by Mrs. Mildred Robinson, his biology teacher. He is presently enrolled in biology I under Mrs. Robinson. This program will begin June 20 and terminate on July 30.

His program will consist of a minor course in Probability and Statistics, and several courses in Biology of Growth and Development, which he has chosen for his major field.

In his major field the emphasis will be placed on the relationship and developmental mechanisms in vertebrate embryos. Specific areas of study will be nuclearcytoplasmic interactions; inductive mechanisms; effects of endocrines on the development of certain embryos.

Sidney is an active member of Biology Club, National Forensic League, and National Honor Society. He is eagerly anticipating his new experience and is certain to gain much that will be beneficial to him in his further study of biology.

National Library Week Brings Out Alterations

National Library Week was observed in the Sikeston high school library this past week.

From the display of books last week, faculty and students chose the books they would like to see placed on the shelves of the library.

Wide variety of books, ranging from sports and hot rods to history, philosophy, and art, will arrive in the fall to be placed on the shelves.

Sikeston high school library will become a 10,000 volume next school year.

New reference section is another addition to the library. Funds used for this collection were supplied by Memorial donations. These funds make it possible for the librarian to purchase various expensive books, which probably could not be afforded otherwise.

Many more students have been aware of the resource material available in the reference library this year than in years past.

Usually during National Library Week many phamplets, markers, and books have been distributed, but these items did not arrive this year in time for circulation.

Students, remember National Library Week and make a visit to the school library this afternoon.

Mrs. Keith Collins Speaks To National Honor Society

Mrs. Keith Collins spoke to the Veritas Chapter of the National Honor Society of Sikeston high school Tuesday.

In accordance with the emphasis being placed upon an appreciation of the fine arts in the city of Sikeston, Mrs. Collins addressed the members of the society on the importance of the fine arts to them and to their community.

She urged the National Honor Society members as leaders in high school also to accept their role as "tastemakers."

This was the first meeting of the chapter for the new members who were inducted earlier this month.

At the final meeting in May, officers for next year will be elected from the junior members of the organization.

Officers this year are John Struwe, president; Dave Collier, vice-president; Carol Miller, secretary; and Gale Skalsky, treasurer.

Delegates to the state convention of the National Honor Society in Jefferson City reported on their activities. President John Struwe and junior Phil Barkett accompanied by the sponsor Mrs. Catherine Matthews represented the Sikeston chapter.

Copies of the chapter's constitution are being prepared for distribution to the 14 seniors, 12 juniors, and 16 sophomores inducted this month. Following the election of officers at the May meeting, the constitution will be discussed and explained to the new inductees.

MRS. KEITH COLLINS, guest speaker for National Honor Society, spoke on ability and appreciation of fine arts.

Civic Classes Take Field Trip

Members of Mrs. Catherine Matthews and William Clayton's fourth hour civics class will visit localindustries on a field trip next Wednesday.

Half of the classes will tour the telephone office and Hart's Bakery, while the rest of the students will visit Potlatch and Anchor Toy. These tours will be the highlight of a unit on the student's own community.

Seventh hour civics class, directed by Mrs. Matthews, will visit First National Bank and Reiss Dairy the next week. Both classes are working on quarter projects involving oral reports about the local history of their state or city.

City manager Raymert Miller, prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick, and Supt. Lynn Twitty have talked to the classes on their various fields of government.

Sikeston Changes To Daylight Time

EARLY LAST SUNDAY MORNING the City of Sikeston made its first transition to daylight saving time since World War II. This move was taken after a vote by the City Council to adopt the plan to conserve the daylight hours.

Daylight saving movement originated in England with William Willett. In his booklet, "The Waste of Daylight" published in 1907, he set forth the principles upon which the new standardized time is based.

By using his method, man rises an hour earlier, begins work an hour earlier, and finishes an hour earlier; thus, he gains an added hour of daylight for leisure.

Daylight saving time has been in existence for centuries. Agriculture, the oldest of industries, has made worthwhile use of it, as has the bulk of mankind -- in Asia, Africa, Australia, and the agrarian communities of America and Europe.

When the method first came into use, events simply started an hour earlier with no alteration of the clocks. The psychological effect and the fact that the use of this method was not widespred made it disadvantageous.

Main objections to daylight saving are the difficulties connected with the meteorological instruments and the daily international telegraphic reports of synchronous observation of weather reports.

Since neither of these have a direct effect on Sikeston and since many of the surrounding municipalities had done so, Sikeston adopted the daylight saving time and with a few adjustments should find it successful in accomplishing its purpose. - - - - - - - - - - - - - Carol Miller

Knowledge Stays Wisest Investment

DO SIKESTON HIGH SCHOOL students appreciate the school library? If they do not, that is because they have not taken the time and interest needed to investigate the wealth of material that it provides.

Everyone has heard "that knowledge is a wise investment." Students can find no better way to gain knowledge than by taking advantage of this storehouse of facts and fiction at their dispoasl.

Various leaders of the world have educated themselves and have become successful by reading material in a library.

Libraries can be more than a place to find a book needed for that book review the following day. Students may learn a great deal for themselves by browsing through the reference section.

In addition to the encyclopedias and dictionaries, books on special sciences and mathematics, foreign countries and Missouri state histories may be found.

By the time sophomore students become seniors, the value of the library will have increased in the two years. Using the library will assist those special reports, literary criticisms, and also that semi-thesis.

National Library Week was celebrated this week, and Sikeston high school library has 8,747 books, showing that 10 books could be provided for each student.

To appreciate the school library is "to use it wisely." - - - - - - - - - - - - Joanie Kirk

Independent Researchers Race Clocks

by Carol Miller

During the second semester, 11 seniors of Sikeston high school have been engaged in a new course of study known as independent research. Throughout the weeks of school, they have had full command over their time and the development of their study.

As the calendars and clocks turn to May, the researchers will produce the completed summary of their semester's work. On the whole, the experiment has been very successful, but the climax is reached when every note has to be typed, every book listed in the bibliography, and every student thoroughly informed on his subject.

One of the severe difficulties of this project was the wide variety of subjects chosen by the researchers and the lack of available material in some of the fields. Self-organization was also a difficulty and an adjustment had to be made.

Three of the students were concerned with some phase of history — Patricia Wood with the family relations of the English monarchs, Craig Copsy with firearms, and Elgin Davis with the history and development of Communism.

In the field of literature, Clayton Vandivort has compiled a paper concerned with the development of the American novel, while Carol Miller compared and contrasted the novels of Sinclair Lewis and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Doug Marsh has studied probability; John Marshall concerned himself with electronics from the engineering aspect; and Ronnie Summers has completed his research on atomic energy.

Other researchers are Rob Mitchell who concentrated on the development and application of insurance, Emily Twitty with a study of existentalism and reincarnation, and Steve Poe who dealth with psychology's relationship to selling.

Within the next few weeks, these projects will be completed and turned in to Carl Wright, co-ordinator of the independent research. Designated by Mr. Wright, faculty committee will review the projects with each individual student.

First team to find and correct the mistake in its car will be declared the winner.

Winners of the state contest will represent Missouri in the national contest in Indianapolis in June. National winners will be awarded scholarships and other valuable prizes.

Jim Turner, auto - mechanics instructor, and J. D. Harper, owner of Goza-Harper in Sikeston, will accompany the boys to Columbia. Mr. Harper is the local sponsor of Sikeston's mechanic team.

Sikeston's team has been training on a 1965 Plymouth donated by the Goza-Harper Motor Company.

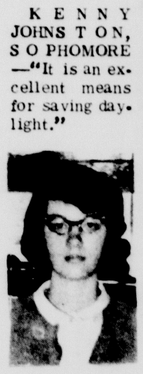
Mr. Turner stated, "All three of these boys are training for this contest and are capable of winning. We hope to bring home the trophy."

Students who can not be present for the try outs on Monday will be allowed to present their speeches Tuesday afternoon. According to Principal Harold Kiehne, "The administration is certainly happy that so many students are taking an interest in participating in commencement activities."

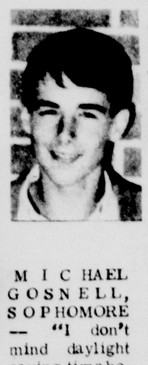
Five Students Give Views On Daylight Savings Time

Sikeston and many other communities in the Bootheel all went on daylight savings time Sunday. This meant that everyone's clock was set forward one hour.

Five students express their views on the practice that makes them "really get up an hour earlier."

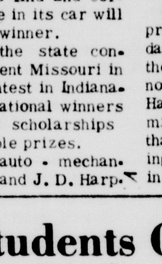


KENNY JOHNSTON, SOPHOMORE —"It is an excellent means for saving daylight."



MICHAEL GOSNELL, SOPHOMORE — "I don't mind daylight saving time because we get out of school at 2:30, but we come at 6:30."

JOAN STEPHENSON, SENIOR--- — "It was 'rough' Sunday, but I have almost become accustomed to it now. I once looked forward to summer so that I could get up when it was light, but now when I get up it is dark"



JOHN MARSHALL, SENIOR — "Ithink it is a much needed change for a growing metropolis like Sikeston. It was necessary when communities within a half - hour drive of here changed."

EMILY DAVENPORT, JUNIOR — "I dislike daylight savings time because I do things by the sun. For instance when it starts getting dark I start my homework. Now if I do this I do not get to bed till quite late. I wish our City Council would repeal this inconvenience."

Scientific Material Is Timely

by Diane Nunnelee

Science has much to do with the technological world of today. Students wishing to keep up with the "space age" have a vast amount of material from which to choose in Sikeston high school's library.

SCIENCE IN OUR LIVES, by Ritchie Calder, discusses the beginning and development of modern science and its effect on human life. Mr. Calder has presented interesting facts about many of the fields of science and the men related to them.

THE EXCITEMENT OF SCIENCE, by John Rader Platt, gives a "fresh look at man confronting his scientific destiny." The author's style and originality make refreshing reading for young scientists.

GREAT AMERICAN SCIENTISTS, by the editors of "Fortune" magazine, is a four-part book covering the major fields of science and the scientists associated with each field.

Areas covered are physics, chemistry, astronomy, and biology along with brief sketches of great American Scientists in history.

NEW WORLDS IN SCIENCE, by Frank Ross, Jr., presents the reader with the story of basic research in the major fields of science. Mr. Ross' clear and concise presentation plus the various illustrations make for engrossed reading.

Robert Froman attempts to show young people what they can do for science in WANTED —AMATEUR SCIENTISTS. According to the author, no matter what one's interest in science, whether big or small, something is there to hold his attention and make for a useful hobby.

Students glancing through the science books while in the library might try to find a facet of entertainment unknown to him before.

Committees Plan Event

Juniors Give AnnualDance For Seniors

Annual junior-senior prom of Sikeston high school is scheduled for tomorrow evening from 8-11 o'clock in the cafetorium. Junior home rooms are sponsoring this social event.

Finances for the dance were earned primarily through a bake sale sponsored by the junior class.

Juniors also earned money by working in the concession stand at the Bulldog house during football season. Mrs. Catherine Matthews and Mrs. Mildred Robinson's home rooms were in charge of the finance.

Music and invitations are provided by Dolan Rogers' home room. Juniors have contacted the "Rock Kings," a group of college students living in Cape Girardeau, to furnish the entertainment for the event.

Mrs. Hemba Young and Bernard Kincy's students are in charge of the decorations for the evening. As is customary, the theme of the dance is a secret.

All the information concerning it is that two or three statues will constitute a portion of the decorations and the theme concerns a foreign country.

Refreshments are provided by Mrs. Thomas Wilkins' home room and W. W. Wilkison's students will clean up after the dance.

Emily Twitty, Malcolm Lee Attend Meet

Seniors Emily Twitty and Malcolm Lee are representing Sikeston in the speech contest in Columbia today.

Emily will compete in the dramatic reading division, and she will perform a section of the play "J.B." Malcolm will enter radio announcing, and his performance will be of impromptu material.

Both students received excellent ratings in the district contest in Cape Girardeau recently. This made them eligible to compete at state.

Robert Walker, speech instructor and sponsor of the National Forensic League, has aided these students in preparing for the meet.

Missouri State Speech Contest is held on the campus of the University of Missouri. Judges are selected from professors of Stephens and the University of Missouri.

Science Award To Sidney Stauffer

Sidney Stauffer, Sikeston sophomore, is the recipient of a National Science Foundation summer school scholarship. This is a secondary science training program to be held at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau this summer.

Sidney was nominated for this award by Mrs. Mildred Robinson, his biology teacher. He is presently enrolled in biology I under Mrs. Robinson. This program will begin June 20 and terminate on July 30.

His program will consist of a minor course in Probability and Statistics, and several courses in Biology of Growth and Development, which he has chosen for his major field.

In his major field the emphasis will be placed on the relationship and developmental mechanisms in vertebrate embryos. Specific areas of study will be nuclearcytoplasmic interactions; inductive mechanisms; effects of endocrines on the development of certain embryos.

Sidney is an active member of Biology Club, National Forensic League, and National Honor Society. He is eagerly anticipating his new experience and is certain to gain much that will be beneficial to him in his further study of biology.

Civic Classes Take Field Trip

Members of Mrs. Catherine Matthews and William Clayton's fourth hour civics class will visit localindustries on a field trip next Wednesday.

Half of the classes will tour the telephone office and Hart's Bakery, while the rest of the students will visit Potlatch and Anchor Toy. These tours will be the highlight of a unit on the student's own community.

Seventh hour civics class, directed by Mrs. Matthews, will visit First National Bank and Reiss Dairy the next week. Both classes are working on quarter projects involving oral reports about the local history of their state or city.

City manager Raymert Miller, prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick, and Supt. Lynn Twitty have talked to the classes on their various fields of government.

National Library Week Brings Out Alterations

National Library Week was observed in the Sikeston high school library this past week.

From the display of books last week, faculty and students chose the books they would like to see placed on the shelves of the library.

Wide variety of books, ranging from sports and hot rods to history, philosophy, and art, will arrive in the fall to be placed on the shelves.

Sikeston high school library will become a 10,000 volume next school year.

New reference section is another addition to the library. Funds used for this collection were supplied by Memorial donations. These funds make it possible for the librarian to purchase various expensive books, which probably could not be afforded otherwise.

Many more students have been aware of the resource material available in the reference library this year than in years past.

Usually during National Library Week many phamplets, markers, and books have been distributed, but these items did not arrive this year in time for circulation.

Students, remember National Library Week and make a visit to the school library this afternoon.

Mrs. Keith Collins Speaks To National Honor Society

Mrs. Keith Collins spoke to the Veritas Chapter of the National Honor Society of Sikeston high school Tuesday.

In accordance with the emphasis being placed upon an appreciation of the fine arts in the city of Sikeston, Mrs. Collins addressed the members of the society on the importance of the fine arts to them and to their community.

She urged the National Honor Society members as leaders in high school also to accept their role as "tastemakers."

This was the first meeting of the chapter for the new members who were inducted earlier this month.

At the final meeting in May, officers for next year will be elected from the junior members of the organization.

Officers this year are John Struwe, president; Dave Collier, vice-president; Carol Miller, secretary; and Gale Skalsky, treasurer.

Delegates to the state convention of the National Honor Society in Jefferson City reported on their activities. President John Struwe and junior Phil Barkett accompanied by the sponsor Mrs. Catherine Matthews represented the Sikeston chapter.

Copies of the chapter's constitution are being prepared for distribution to the 14 seniors, 12 juniors, and 16 sophomores inducted this month. Following the election of officers at the May meeting, the constitution will be discussed and explained to the new inductees.

MRS. KEITH COLLINS, guest speaker for National Honor Society, spoke on ability and appreciation of fine arts.

THE EXCITEMENT OF SCIENCE, by John Rader Platt, gives a "fresh look at man confronting his scientific destiny." The author's style and originality make refreshing reading for young scientists.

GREAT AMERICAN SCIENTISTS, by the editors of "Fortune" magazine, is a four-part book covering the major fields of science and the scientists associated with each field.

Areas covered are physics, chemistry, astronomy, and biology along with brief sketches of great American Scientists in history.

NEW WORLDS IN SCIENCE, by Frank Ross, Jr., presents the reader with the story of basic research in the major fields of science. Mr. Ross' clear and concise presentation plus the various illustrations make for engrossed reading.

Robert Froman attempts to show young people what they can do for science in WANTED —AMATEUR SCIENTISTS. According to the author, no matter what one's interest in science, whether big or small, something is there to hold his attention and make for a useful hobby.

Students glancing through the science books while in the library might try to find a facet of entertainment unknown to him before.

SOUTHEAST MISSOURI NEWS SIDELIGHTS, FEATURES AND OBSERVATIONS.

By MAX STURM

THE FAMILY PLANNING CLINIC, sponsored by the Pemiscot County Health Center, which was introduced in January is now off the ground and flying okay, according to John S. Duncan, the center's administrator.

Pemiscot was the first county in Missouri to adopt the program. The Dunklin County Health Center followed with a similar set-up and other counties in the state are in process of trying to set it up in their areas.

The first clinic held by the Pemiscot Center in Hayti was on the second Friday in January with others being held on the second Friday of each month since then. So much interest has been generated in the program, Duncan said, that plans are being made to hold an additional clinic each month.

The clinic is held at the health center under the supervision of a physician - member of the Pemiscot County Medical Society. The center furnishes two registered nurses to work with him. Duncan was enthusiastic in his praise of the cooperating medical society and indicated that in trying to set up an additional clinic each month it involved asking the society to furnish a physician for it, "and that just might be asking too much," he added.

Currently, the clinic is limited to a maximum of 12 women each session, a new group each month.

According the health center's basic outline and rules, the purpose of the program is "to provide a family planning clinic to dispense birth-control information and supply oral contraceptives and birth-control devices to indigent married women and unmarried mothers with one or more pregnancies who voluntarily request such services. Services shall be in keeping with the patient's personal and religious beliefs."

The program, as approved by the Pemiscot County Medical Society, lists the following:

PATIENTS WHO ARE ELIGIBLE FOR THE CLINIC: Any patient referred by the private physician; any Department of Public Welfare married recipient as approved by the private physician, or one who has one or more children; any medically indigent married individual and any medically indigent person 21 years of age and over who has had one or more children, as approved by the private physician.

The general policies of the clinic are listed as follows:

1. Patients who are Public Welfare recipients should be contacted by the Welfare Department by letter or a visit and the purpose of the clinic explained to them.

2. On the first clinic visit, the patient will receive a complete physical examination by the physician including weight, blood pressure, tuberculin test, VDRL, urine examination, heart, chest and a Pap smear.

3. The doctor will recommend drug dosage and/or other contraceptive devices.

4. Patients will be instructed to return to the clinic after the first month to talk with the nurse; after six months, then annual visits should be sufficient. The nurse will interview the patients and dispense the drug. Patients who are having problems will be referred to her doctor.

5. All patients under 21 years of age must have a signed consent slip from parent or guardian.

6. All patients shall apply under signature as beneficiaries of the clinic.

The health center's basic plan also lists its determination of the need for such a program:

"The world today is facing a man-made crisis -- population 'explosion.' If current growth rates remain unchanged, the population will rise to six billion by the year 2000. At this rate it is conceivable that within 600 years the number of human beings on earth will be so vast that each person will have only one square yard to live on.

"In recent times man's struggle to survive has achieved a success that has rocked the balance of life. Many diseases have been brought under control and together with miracle drugs these advances have produced what has been described as 'death control.' The boundaries of the earth are fixed; they cannot be expanded. Man must, therefore, in some way control his expanding population rate in this battle between production and reproduction.

"It is unthinkable to most of us to check population growth by killing people. Thus, the only course open to us is to use some acceptable method of bringing birth rates into today's low death rates.

"Physical and mental conditions often limit the income of parents, and the birth of an excessive number of children in the family causes poverty and want to prevail. Children may suffer from lack of proper diet and care. The health of the mother may be jeopardized by bearing and caring for too many children. In some instances the very structure of the family is destroyed by the desertion of one or both parents when the psychological pressure and monetary problems arise due to too large a family. Fear of bearing another child sometimes creates tensions between husband and wife and generally hinders the establishment of satisfactory relations."

The success of such family planning programs is greatly dependent on the relatively new oral contraceptives, commonly called "The Pill." An additional aid, according to Duncan, is the newer IUCD (Intrauterine Contraceptive Device), a plastic or stainless steel item that, according to McCall's Magazine, has also proven remarkably effective for preventing pregnancy. The pill method requires its users' strict adherence to a regimen of one tablet a day for 20 days a month, but by strict adherence of this schedule a highest degree of protection is acquired. The ICUD method, while costing considerably less than the constant usage of the pills, involves the installation of the device by a physician and prescribed check-ups later on to ensure that the device remains in place and no complications have arisen.

The Pemiscot Health Center's program calls for the use of either method as determined by the physican, Duncan said. He added that the physical examination portion of the program had, so far, discovered one case of cancer of cervix in an early stage that the patient didn't know she had. She was referred to a hospital specializing in cancer treatment.

In many cases, emergency surgery was performed without anesthetics. The city was largely without electricity or water.

American reinforcements poured in by sea and air. Some 1,200 Marines came ashore Thursday from Navy ships offshore, joining 500 others who had landed Wednesday to begin the evacuation of American citizens and other refugees.

Shortly after midnight two battalions of the U. S. 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N. C. -- 2,500 men - began landing at the San Isidro base 20 miles from Santo Domingo. The base is the headquarters of the forces trying to quell the rebellion.

The Marines had set up an evacuation center at a polo field near the plush Embajador Ambassador Hotel on the outskirts of Santo Domingo. U. S. officials said Thursday night that 1,400 refugees, most of them Americans, had been evacuated. They said 650 were waiting at the hotel and at the polo grounds, and many others were still in Santo Domingo.

The Marines rescued 150 Latin-American nationals from the downtown area.

Refugees were being processed at the Embajador by U.S. Navy personnel. They were accepting all Americans or citizens of other countries, plus Dominicans who show evidence of an American in the family.

Evacuees were taken to the polo field, where tents have been erected. They waited there for helicopters to take them to the aircraft carrier Boxer offshore.

Each refugee was allowed to take a maximum of two bags. Many left carrying children in their arms.

The Marines also set up defense around the hotel, which was packed with foreign residents or tourists caught in the fighting.

One unit of Marines guarded the U. S. Embassy. Thursday they killed two rebel snipers who fired at them from a rooftop and apartment windows. The Marines shot back from the cover of automobiles parked on the three - shaded lawn of the embassy. No Marine casualties were reported.

At least three other snipers were killed by Dominican troops.

Embassies of El Salvador, Peru, Mexico and Ecuador reported similar sniper attacks.

The State Department announced that "emergency action is being taken by the United States to provide food, medical supplies, and emergency hospital facilities to assist the victims of the present violence."

"The situation in Santo Domingo has continued to deteriorate," the State Department said. "Law and order have ceased to exist. Calls for ceasefire have thus far been ignored."

The United States planned to send in mobile hospital units, including one from Puerto Rico. But some of the roving bands of rebels have failed to respect the Red Cross symbol.

U.S. officials said Col. Francisco Caamano had emerged as the leader of the rebel army officers.

The chieftain of the military junta is Col. Pedro Bartolomei Benoit, an air force officer. He was one of three men picked by Gen. Elias Wessin, the military strongman in the Dominican Republic, to make up a junta after the rebels forced the civilian triumvirate headed by Donald Reid Cabral to resign.

Benoit wrote Ambassador Bennett Thursday requesting U.S. Marines for "temporary intervention and assistance in restoring order."

On TV

NEW YORK AP -- It is very probable that a team of producers named Phil D'Antoni and Norman Baer have done more for arm - chair rubber necking than anyone since the days of Burton Holmes of the lectures and Fitzpatrick of the movie travel talks. They invented, for all practical purposes, the television star-guided tour.

Perhaps Princess Grace's dignified "Tour of Monaco" a few seasons back was the seed, but the idea really blossomed with "Elizabeth Taylor in London" and "Sophia Loren in Rome," the first two D'Antoni-Baer super-travelogues. Their success not only established the production firm but brought them a flood of offers by the great and near-great eager to guide future TV tours.

Coming up next Monday is their special "Melina Mercouri's Greece," on ABC.

"You don't want stars who are seen very much - and that immediately eliminates all the popular television names, except Bob Hope, who is in a special category. We did have some preliminary talks about a 'Lucille Ball in Ireland' -- she's Irish of course - but it couldn't be worked out," Baer said.

Next season, in addition to turning out a couple of their specialties, Baer and D'Antoni will produce six ABC specials starring Robert Preston. Each will explore the geography and characteristics of a different region of the United States.

COMMUNITY HEALTH FORUM

Dr. James Q. Simmons, Jr., associate medical and research director of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society answers your questions on multiple sclerosis.

Q What is known about multiple sclerosis?

A Multiple sclerosis is a disabling disease of the central nervous system. Called the great crippler of young adults, it attacks the substance which sheathes nerve fibers causing nerve messages controlling movement, vision, speech and balance to be distorted, often blocked.

Q Whom does MS strike?

A MS strikes most often at young adults in the 20 to 40 age range, during the years when they should be most vital, most productive. An estimated 500,000 Americans suffer from MS and related diseases.

Q Does MS lead to total physical disability?

A Though MS can be progressive, often leading to total disability, with proper medical supervision, most MS patients continue to be active, vital people.

Q Is there a cure for MS at the present time?

A There is no specific known medical management which alters the natural unpredictable course of the disease which is one of worsening, followed by periods of improvement achieving a plateau where no change takes place. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society recommends good general medical care devoted to the prevention of intercurrent infectious illness and directed toward the control of the more distressing symptoms as they appear.

SOUTHEAST MISSOURI NEWS SIDELIGHTS, FEATURES AND OBSERVATIONS.

By MAX STURM

THE FAMILY PLANNING CLINIC, sponsored by the Pemiscot County Health Center, which was introduced in January is now off the ground and flying okay, according to John S. Duncan, the center's administrator.

Pemiscot was the first county in Missouri to adopt the program. The Dunklin County Health Center followed with a similar set-up and other counties in the state are in process of trying to set it up in their areas.

The first clinic held by the Pemiscot Center in Hayti was on the second Friday in January with others being held on the second Friday of each month since then. So much interest has been generated in the program, Duncan said, that plans are being made to hold an additional clinic each month.

The clinic is held at the health center under the supervision of a physician - member of the Pemiscot County Medical Society. The center furnishes two registered nurses to work with him. Duncan was enthusiastic in his praise of the cooperating medical society and indicated that in trying to set up an additional clinic each month it involved asking the society to furnish a physician for it, "and that just might be asking too much," he added.

Currently, the clinic is limited to a maximum of 12 women each session, a new group each month.

According the health center's basic outline and rules, the purpose of the program is "to provide a family planning clinic to dispense birth-control information and supply oral contraceptives and birth-control devices to indigent married women and unmarried mothers with one or more pregnancies who voluntarily request such services. Services shall be in keeping with the patient's personal and religious beliefs."

The program, as approved by the Pemiscot County Medical Society, lists the following:

PATIENTS WHO ARE ELIGIBLE FOR THE CLINIC: Any patient referred by the private physician; any Department of Public Welfare married recipient as approved by the private physician, or one who has one or more children; any medically indigent married individual and any medically indigent person 21 years of age and over who has had one or more children, as approved by the private physician.

The general policies of the clinic are listed as follows:

1. Patients who are Public Welfare recipients should be contacted by the Welfare Department by letter or a visit and the purpose of the clinic explained to them.

2. On the first clinic visit, the patient will receive a complete physical examination by the physician including weight, blood pressure, tuberculin test, VDRL, urine examination, heart, chest and a Pap smear.

3. The doctor will recommend drug dosage and/or other contraceptive devices.

4. Patients will be instructed to return to the clinic after the first month to talk with the nurse; after six months, then annual visits should be sufficient. The nurse will interview the patients and dispense the drug. Patients who are having problems will be referred to her doctor.

5. All patients under 21 years of age must have a signed consent slip from parent or guardian.

6. All patients shall apply under signature as beneficiaries of the clinic.

The health center's basic plan also lists its determination of the need for such a program:

"The world today is facing a man-made crisis -- population 'explosion.' If current growth rates remain unchanged, the population will rise to six billion by the year 2000. At this rate it is conceivable that within
in 600 years the number of human beings on earth will be so vast that each person will have only one square yard to live on.

"In recent times man's struggle to survive has achieved a success that has rocked the balance of life. Many diseases have been brought under control and together with miracle drugs these advances have produced what has been described as 'death control.' The boundaries of the earth are fixed; they cannot be expanded. Man must, therefore, in some way control his expanding population rate in this battle between production and reproduction.

"It is unthinkable to most of us to check population growth by killing people. Thus, the only course open to us is to use some acceptable method of bringing birth rates into today's low death rates.

"Physical and mental conditions often limit the income of parents, and the birth of an excessive number of children in the family causes poverty and want to prevail. Children may suffer from lack of proper diet and care. The health of the mother may be jeopardized by bearing and caring for too many children. In some instances the very structure of the family is destroyed by the desertion of one or both parents when the psychological pressure and monetary problems arise due to too large a family. Fear of bearing another child sometimes creates tensions between husband and wife and generally hinders the establishment of satisfactory relations."

The success of such family planning programs is greatly dependent on the relatively new oral contraceptives, commonly called "The Pill." An additional aid, according to Duncan, is the newer IUCD (Intrauterine Contraceptive Device), a plastic or stainless steel item that, according to McCall's Magazine, has also proven remarkably effective for preventing pregnancy. The pill method requires its users' strict adherence to a regimen of one tablet a day for 20 days a month, but by strict adherence of this schedule a highest degree of protection is acquired. The ICUD method, while costing considerably less than the constant usage of the pills, involves the installation of the device by a physician and prescribed check-ups later on to ensure that the device remains in place and no complications have arisen.

The Pemiscot Health Center's program calls for the use of either method as determined by the physican, Duncan said. He added that the physical examination portion of the program had, so far, discovered one case of cancer of cervix in an early stage that the patient didn't know she had. She was referred to a hospital specializing in cancer treatment.

In many cases, emergency surgery was performed without anesthetics. The city was largely without electricity or water.

American reinforcements poured in by sea and air. Some 1,200 Marines came ashore Thursday from Navy ships offshore, joining 500 others who had landed Wednesday to begin the evacuation of American citizens and other refugees.

Shortly after midnight two battalions of the U. S. 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N. C. -- 2,500 men - began landing at the San Isidro base 20 miles from Santo Domingo. The base is the headquarters of the forces trying to quell the rebellion.

The Marines had set up an evacuation center at a polo field near the plush Embajador Ambassador Hotel on the outskirts of Santo Domingo. U. S. officials said Thursday night that 1,400 refugees, most of them Americans, had been evacuated. They said 650 were waiting at the hotel and at the polo grounds, and many others were still in Santo Domingo.

The Marines rescued 150 Latin-American nationals from the downtown area.

Refugees were being processed at the Embajador by U.S. Navy personnel. They were accepting all Americans or citizens of other countries, plus Dominicans who show evidence of an American in the family.

Evacuees were taken to the polo field, where tents have been erected. They waited there for helicopters to take them to the aircraft carrier Boxer offshore.

Each refugee was allowed to take a maximum of two bags. Many left carrying children in their arms.

The Marines also set up defense around the hotel, which was packed with foreign residents or tourists caught in the fighting.

One unit of Marines guarded the U. S. Embassy. Thursday they killed two rebel snipers who fired at them from a rooftop and apartment windows. The Marines shot back from the cover of automobiles parked on the three - shaded lawn of the embassy. No Marine casualties were reported.

At least three other snipers were killed by Dominican troops.

Embassies of El Salvador, Peru, Mexico and Ecuador reported similar sniper attacks.

The State Department announced that "emergency action is being taken by the United States to provide food, medical supplies, and emergency hospital facilities to assist the victims of the present violence."

"The situation in Santo Domingo has continued to deteriorate," the State Department said. "Law and order have ceased to exist. Calls for cease-fire have thus far been ignored."

The United States planned to send in mobile hospital units, including one from Puerto Rico. But some of the roving bands of rebels have failed to respect the Red Cross symbol.

U.S. officials said Col. Francisco Caamano had emerged as the leader of the rebel army officers.

The chieftain of the military junta is Col. Pedro Bartolomei Benoit, an air force officer. He was one of three men picked by Gen. Elias Wessin, the military strongman in the Dominican Republic, to make up a junta after the rebels forced the civilian triumvirate headed by Donald Reid Cabral to resign.

Benoit wrote Ambassador Bennett Thursday requesting U.S. Marines for "temporary intervention and assistance in restoring order."

On TV

NEW YORK AP -- It is very probable that a team of producers named Phil D'Antoni and Norman Baer have done more for arm - chair rubber necking than anyone since the days of Burton Holmes of the lectures and Fitzpatrick of the movie travel talks. They invented, for all practical purposes, the television star-guided tour.

Perhaps Princess Grace's dignified "Tour of Monaco" a few seasons back was the seed, but the idea really blossomed with "Elizabeth Taylor in London" and "Sophia Loren in Rome," the first two D'Antoni-Baer super-travelogues. Their success not only established the production firm but brought them a flood of offers by the great and near-great eager to guide future TV tours.

Coming up next Monday is their special "Melina Mercouri's Greece," on ABC.

"You don't want stars who are seen very much - and that immediately eliminates all the popular television names, except Bob Hope, who is in a special category. We did have some preliminary talks about a 'Lucille Ball in Ireland' -- she's Irish of course - but it couldn't be worked out," Baer said.

Next season, in addition to turning out a couple of their specialties, Baer and D'Antoni will produce six ABC specials starring Robert Preston. Each will explore the geography and characteristics of a different region of the United States.

COMMUNITY HEALTH FORUM

Dr. James Q. Simmons, Jr., associate medical and research director of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society answers your questions on multiple sclerosis.

Q What is known about multiple sclerosis?

A Multiple sclerosis is a disabling disease of the central nervous system. Called the great crippler of young adults, it attacks the substance which sheathes nerve fibers causing nerve messages controlling movement, vision, speech and balance to be distorted, often blocked.

Q Whom does MS strike?

A MS strikes most often at young adults in the 20 to 40 age range, during the years when they should be most vital, most productive. An estimated 500,000 Americans suffer from MS and related diseases.

Q Does MS lead to total physical disability?

A Though MS can be progressive, often leading to total disability, with proper medical supervision, most MS patients continue to be active, vital people.

Q Is there a cure for MS at the present time?

A There is no specific known medical management which alters the natural unpredictable course of the disease which is one of worsening, followed by periods of improvement achieving a plateau where no change takes place. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society recommends good general medical care devoted to the prevention of intercurrent infectious illness and directed toward the control of the more distressing symptoms as they appear.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Friday, April 30, the 120th day of 1965. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first president of the United States in a ceremony in New York City, then the capital of the new nation.

On this date

In 1598, an expedition led by Juan de Onate arrived at the Rio Grande River opposite what is now El Paso, Texas, and took possession of the country for Spain.

In 1810, the U.S. general post-office was established.

In 1812, the 18th state, Louisiana, was admitted to the union.

In 1939, the New York World's Fair was opened by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1945, Moscow announced that the Soviet flag had been raised over the ruins of the Reichstag in Berlin; on the same day Adolf Hitler died in a bunker 30 feet under the city.

Ten years ago — President Dwight Eisenhower disclosed he had exchanged correspondence with Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov which might "lead to some betterment of the world situation."

Five years ago — Bridge playing teams of the United Arab Republic and Lebanon were ordered not to have any contact with the Israeli team at the World Bridge Olympiad in New York.

Mail Box

Hon. Hunter Phillips, Chairman
Missouri State Tax Commission
Jefferson City, Missouri

Dear Judge:

I certainly appreciate the effort you made last week when you drove to Stoddard County to meet with our County officials, school board members and administrators and other interested citizens. It was the general concensus that this was the first productive meeting held on Stoddard County tax assessments in recent years.

The present method of determining ratio of true value for our present tax assessments is, in my opinion, grossly unfair for the citizens of Stoddard County and an impartial revue of our situation will substantiate this feeling.

Very briefly, our situation in Stoddard County has resulted in three 10% real estate evaluation increases during the past three years while, at the same time, our ratio to true value has decreased on a County wide basis from over 26% to 20.5%.

This situation has resulted because the information on which you base your ratio studies has been furnished to the State Tax Commission, on a large part, by the utilities who benefit from the reduction in tax levies that are required by law when you force additional assessments on a blanket basis upon any county.

The erroneous information that you have been furnished for your ratio studies has resulted in our public schools of Stoddard County losing approximately $55,000. per year from State Foundation Funds.

I respectfully request that immediate action be taken by your office to restudy the per cent of true value of the assessments of real estate in Stoddard County. I have every confidence that such a study will show that the real estate in Stoddard County is assessed somewhat near 30% of true value. This is certainly important for the public schools of Stoddard County and the benefits to be received from such a study by the children involved will make this request a reasonable one under the circumstances.

I hope you will let me hear from you with a favorable decision on my request as rapidly as practical.

Yours very truly,
TOM BAKER

Today In U. S. History

Today is Friday, April 30, the 120th day of 1965. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first president of the United States in a ceremony in New York City, then the capital of the new nation.

On this date

In 1598, an expedition led by Juan de Onate arrived at the Rio Grande River opposite what is now El Paso, Texas, and took possession of the country for Spain.

In 1810, the U.S. general post-office was established.

In 1812, the 18th state, Louisiana, was admitted to the union.

In 1939, the New York World's Fair was opened by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1945, Moscow announced that the Soviet flag had been raised over the ruins of the Reichstag in Berlin; on the same day Adolf Hitler died in a bunker 30 feet under the city.

Ten years ago — President Dwight Eisenhower disclosed he had exchanged correspondence with Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov which might "lead to some betterment of the world situation."

Five years ago — Bridge playing teams of the United Arab Republic and Lebanon were ordered not to have any contact with the Israeli team at the World Bridge Olympiad in New York.

Mail Box

Hon. Hunter Phillips, Chairman
Missouri State Tax Commission
Jefferson City, Missouri

Dear Judge:

I certainly appreciate the effort you made last week when you drove to Stoddard County to meet with our County officials, school board members and administrators and other interested citizens. It was the general concensus that this was the first productive meeting held on Stoddard County tax assessments in recent years.

The present method of determining ratio of true value for our present tax assessments is, in my opinion, grossly unfair for the citizens of Stoddard County and an impartial revue of our situation will substantiate this feeling.

Very briefly, our situation in Stoddard County has resulted in three 10% real estate evaluation increases during the past three years while, at the same time, our ratio to true value has decreased on a County wide basis from over 26% to 20.5%.

This situation has resulted because the information on which you base your ratio studies has been furnished to the State Tax Commission, on a large part, by the utilities who benefit from the reduction in tax levies that are required by law when you force additional assessments on a blanket basis upon any county.

The erroneous information that you have been furnished for your ratio studies has resulted in our public schools of Stoddard County losing approximately $55,000. per year from State Foundation Funds.

I respectfully request that immediate action be taken by your office to restudy the per cent of true value of the assessments of real estate in Stoddard County. I have every confidence that such a study will show that the real estate in Stoddard County is assessed somewhat near 30% of true value. This is certainly important for the public schools of Stoddard County and the benefits to be received from such a study by the children involved will make this request a reasonable one under the circumstances.

I hope you will let me hear from you with a favorable decision on my request as rapidly as practical.

Yours very truly,
TOM BAKER

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a nice looking, middle-aged woman who is slightly overweight. I love good food and I am not going to starve to death to squeeze into a size 14. I see no point in trying to be a carbon copy of those emaciated, consumptive woman who call themselves models.

A friend of mine is as skinny as a rat. She passes up desserts and never touches candy, ice cream or sodas. (She says she doesn't care for them.) How can anyone NOT care for hot fudge sauce, whipped cream cake and lemon meringue pie?

Is it possible that she just SAYS she doesn't like these things and that she is really dying inside? I say she is. What do you say? The whole club wants to know.--PLEASINGLY PLUMP

Dear Plump: I hope I don't ruin your day, Doll, but it is entirely possible that the skinny rat has no interest in pies, cakes, fudge sauce and other calorie-laden foods.

Some people have a perpetual sweet tooth. Others just don't crave rich foods and can live very nicely without them.

(P. S. I enjoy desserts, candy, fudge sauce and the works--and I've been a size 10 for 27 years. So now you can hate both of us.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am in my middle twenties and the mother of three children. Their father was killed in the service last year.

Several months ago I fell in love with a musician who works odd jobs part-time and is now unemployed. Virgil is divorced and his ex-wife has remarried. She has their two children.

I invited Virgil to move in because he was over here all the time anyway. Besides, it was too hard on me to drive him to his rooming house every night, sometimes as late as 4 o'clock in the morning.

When my relatives and friends asked when we got married I was ashamed to tell them the truth so I made up a date. Virgil has not mentioned marriage but I think he would marry me if I asked him to. To be honest I don't want to get married because I would lose the government check that I've gotten ever since my husband was killed. Please give me some practical advice.--DILLY

Dear Dilly: Any man who would move in and allow a widow and her children to support him can't be much. Give this parasite the heave-ho and find yourself a decent man who wants to be a husband and a father.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you aren't a doctor, but can you tell me (and millions of other women) what to do about feet that hurt all the time?

I am a receptionist and must look well from 9 to 5. My legs are a bit on the heavy side and high heels are a must for me.

I tried attractive flats to see if my feet felt better and ended up with terrible pains in my calves. Now I am back on high heels and my feet are killing me.

Are aching feet part of a woman's lot? If you say so I'll accept it and shut up. --BARKING DOGS

Dear Dogs: You can do two things to quiet those barking dogs.

(1) Massage your feet with cream (any kind) every night before going to bed.

(2) Buy larger shoes even if it means going up a whole size. Some women don't realize that their feet get larger as time marches on. They continue to ask for the same size instead of a shoe that fits properly.

BEAUTY, WITH TRADITION...
YORKTOWN

Probably no other wood can be so fashioned as to equal the naturally rich and warm beauty of Maple — and certainly no other Maple furniture is so distinctively designed and so painstakingly crafted as "Yorktown" by Flanders.

"Yorktown" is a luxuriously created, yet realistically priced correlation of open stock Solid Maple bedroom and dining room furniture, which handsomely upholds the finest traditions of Early American style. Illustrated here are the lovely Bookcase Bed; the spacious Triple Dresser, with polished plate glass non-distortion mirror; the large upright Chest; and the charming, yet generous Commode. All cases feature oak-reinforced, center-guided drawers with cedar-lined storage areas; and all pieces offer hidden nylon casters for ease of movement. Added value may be found in the solid brass hardware and the exclusive Flanders seven-step finishing process, which includes hand wooling and waxing.

Lavish yourself with luxury — at a price so low you'll have to ask a second time to be certain you heard correctly. See our "Yorktown" selection, by Flanders, very soon.

Building Design Of

First National Bank

Structure is reinforced concrete frame with long span pre-stretched T-Beams forming clear story roof over the central part of the banking area. The exterior design emphasizes the combination of the concrete structure and brick walls. The plan consists essentially of a large rectangular banking area with two connecting passages around an interior landscaped court connecting to the Installment Loan Department and a public Community Room. The specific character of the interior design consists of exposed brick walls, considerable walnut and teak paneling. All cabinet work, including teller counters, is in walnut, which wood is used in total design scheme and furnishings. # Building Design Of

First National Bank

Structure is reinforced concrete frame with long span pre-stretched T-Beams forming clear story roof over the central part of the banking area. The exterior design emphasizes the combination of the concrete structure and brick walls. The plan consists essentially of a large rectangular banking area with two connecting passages around an interior landscaped court connecting to the Installment Loan Department and a public Community Room. The specific character of the interior design consists of exposed brick walls, considerable walnut and teak paneling. All cabinet work, including teller counters, is in walnut, which wood is used in total design scheme and furnishings. The basement includes facilities for the Data Processing Room, Employee's Lounge, Director's Room, and mechanical facilities and storage. A public elevator serving the basement is close to the main entrance. The total first floor area is 7450 square feet. The basement floor area consists of 4700 square feet. The building is placed in the center of a large site which consists of 68,300 square feet, including parking for 46 cars. In addition to this, considerable area is devoted to landscaped spaces, with drive extending around building to two drive-in windows and night depository.
